Historic Action: School Board Votes to Add Ethnic Studies to Curriculum

On November 18th, I was delighted to join with Board Members Bennett Kayser and Steven Zimmer in co-sponsoring a historic resolution that will improve the educational experience and outcomes of our children. By passing the “Supporting Ethnic Studies in the Los Angeles Unified School District” resolution, the school board added ethnic studies to the LAUSD curriculum, and established it as a graduation requirement for the class of 2019.

The value of ethnic studies is well documented. According to the National Education Association, ethnic studies benefited students of color in observable ways: they became more academically engaged, increased educational outcomes on academic tests, improved graduation rates, and developed a sense of self-efficacy and personal empowerment (NEA’s 2010 “The Academic and Social Value of Ethnic Studies”). This endeavor is critical to closing the achievement gap and increasing graduation rates.

Interim Superintendent Cortines has been directed to produce a plan and budget for integrating ethnic studies into the district’s curriculum. A committee of stakeholders is being formed to advise him and the board.

Praise goes to Ethnic Studies Now, the teacher-student-parent-community coalition that came together to push the resolution.

LAUSD Celebrates the Naming of Marguerite Poindexter LaMotte Elementary School

Dr. McKenna celebrated the official naming of a new school after the late, distinguished District 1 School Board Member Marguerite Poindexter LaMotte with Interim Superintendent Ramon Cortines, staff, parents and community leaders. The new school, which opened in 2012, is located at 4410 Orchard Ave., L.A., CA 90037, and is led by Principal Dormanda Higuichi.
Crenshaw H.S. Wellness Center Opens

Dr. McKenna celebrated the opening of The Wellness Center at Crenshaw High School. The wellness centers are part of a school district-wide wellness initiative intended to utilize joint use bond funds to construct new or renovate existing health facilities on school sites in high need communities. The facilities are designed to meet the unique needs of the communities they serve, including: primary health care services; mental health and behavioral health services; oral health services; coordination of family support services; health insurance enrollment and renewal; and student and parent engagement for health and wellness career pathways.

College Prep: Complete the College Financial Aid Application Over Winter Recess

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) will be made available for completion on January 1. The form, which is available online, is a requirement for determining a college student’s financial aid eligibility in the 2015-2016 school year. Let us ensure the pathway to college remains open for our youth. Seniors and their parents should use the winter recess to begin the application. For more information and to start the process go to www.fafsa.ed.gov

Dr. McKenna addressed an auditorium full of bright-eyed LAUSD students at the Young Men of Color Conference held at Loyola Marymount University on November 15. Young men from 18 schools throughout the LAUSD participated in a dynamic day of learning that included strategies designed to motivate, encourage and challenge young men to succeed academically, breakout sessions, peer-to-peer sharing, mentoring, entertainment and inspirational speeches headlined by LA Clippers’ head coach Doc Rivers. The conference was part of a five-part series culminating into the creation of a “village” of male leaders participating beyond the conference as mentors to the young men from 25-30 community-based organizations and local agencies.
