Are your students engaged with the content? Are your lesson plans blueprints for success? In this training, teachers will learn the ABCs of student engagement by learning how to make your instruction student and learning-centered. Utilizing a wide-range of research-based instructional strategies, participants will learn to increase student engagement, increase student motivation for maximum learning, extend student's critical thinking skills, make effective use of instructional time, and teach so students will reach their learning goals. Participants will learn that effective lesson design and masterful instruction is both an art and a science.

PLEASE NOTE: Class is FREE to all teachers. The $75 registration fee for this workshop will be paid by the LAUSD Peer Assistance and Review program. Some Charter schools may participate on a fee-for-service basis.

There is no monetary compensation for salary point classes. Participants will be given a certificate for the number of hours of the workshop. Participants must stay for the entire duration of the class to receive a certificate for the workshop hours. Late comers will not receive full credit for this 6-hour workshop. Participants are responsible for obtaining instructor's signature, maintaining their Professional Development Log and submitting appropriate Salary Point Credit paperwork to the PAR office. The Peer Assistance and Review office is not responsible for keeping track of participants' salary point classes.
