PURPOSE: The Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD) is committed to embracing culture and diversity in our school communities to educate, empower and ensure that every student graduates prepared for college, career and life.

Board Resolution 097-13/14, adopted June 11, 2014, highlights “the need to ensure every student has equitable opportunities to learn as both a human right and a civil right, and seeks to ensure access to Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Pedagogy (CLRP) for equitable access to curriculum.” Additionally, many African American, Mexican American, Hawaiian American, Native American and Pacific Islander students face barriers to learning when their language varies from the Standard Academic English used in classroom discourse and in textbooks.

The purpose of this Bulletin is to provide guidelines to school leaders regarding the required annual CLRP PK-12 Professional Development Module for all certificated staff members at PK-12 schools. Given that LAUSD is comprised of culturally and linguistically diverse student populations, it is necessary that CLRP Professional Development is a requirement for all certificated staff members.

MAJOR CHANGES: This is a new Bulletin.

BACKGROUND: Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Pedagogy is embedded in state (i.e., California Content Standards, the ELA/ELD Framework, and the California Preschool Learning Foundations) and District policies (i.e., Strengthening Support for Standard English Learner Resolution, English Learner Master Plan, and LAUSD Teaching and Learning and Leadership Frameworks). These policies recognize that students come from diverse cultural, linguistic, and ethnic backgrounds and possess a range of skills, abilities, interests, and levels of language proficiency that must be met through responsive, high-quality instruction. Accordingly, CLR practices encompass the social-emotional, relational, and cognitive aspects of teaching culturally and linguistically diverse students.

All students benefit from high-quality instruction that incorporates CLR. The use of CLR validates and affirms students’ home cultures and languages and becomes the catalyst upon which to accelerate the learning process. When CLR is utilized school-wide, educators can support each other as they become more culturally proficient in their efforts to narrow opportunity and achievement gaps of underserved student populations and raise the school-wide achievement of students in persistently underperforming schools. The use of CLR also complements other instructional initiatives and evidence-based practices that improve student outcomes, such as Positive Behavior Intervention and Supports and Restorative Justice Practices. These practices combined contribute to safe, welcoming, nurturing, and engaging learning environments for all students.

Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Pedagogy is rooted in research confirming that high-quality instruction that incorporates CLR empowers students intellectually, socially, emotionally, and politically through historical referent. When trained in CLR, teachers are mindful of how learners construct knowledge, feel compelled to learn about their students’ lives, become socio-culturally conscious, hold affirming views about diversity, use culturally responsive instructional strategies, and advocate for all students. For culturally diverse students, a teacher’s shift to deliberate use of a CLR approach can result in increased student motivation, engagement, and overall academic success.
