Introduction

I. Completion of the Mission

Statement of Mission
In the charter petition presented in 2008 the school made this statement of its mission:

Central City Value School facilitates the learning of high school students who come from at-risk populations by providing a highly focused academic program in an environment that is infused with its core values. The school’s ultimate goal is to educate its students so that they may become persons who make a positive difference for their society and their world.

Measurable Objectives
The charter petition sets forth a series of measurable objectives which, if achieved, would verify the completion of the mission. The following is an analysis of the school’s success on each objective.

1. To successfully complete a core course, a student must demonstrate mastery of 70% of the major standards for the course as indicated by various assessment tools chosen by the teachers.

What has happened in the previous four years?
Each teacher in the core courses evaluated the students and determined mastery of the California state standards for that course through a variety of assessments. These assessments included quizzes, teacher prepared tests, textbook-generated tests, test banks, student-centered assessments such as oral presentations, essays, and group projects. Additionally, in 2010, the administration mandated school-wide benchmark exams in each course to monitor students’ progress toward mastery of the standards. At Central City mastery and passing grades were marked at 70%. Students who fell below 70% were offered summer school courses to attain mastery at 70% or more.

What will happen in the next five years?
Central City Value High School will continue to have each teacher evaluate and determine mastery of the major California state standards and in 2015 the Common Core State Standards. Teachers will continue to use the variety of assessments to determine mastery such as; quizzes, teacher prepared tests, textbook generated tests and test banks, student-centered assessments along with school-wide benchmark exams. Summer school will be provided for students who do not attain 70% mastery of the California standards and in 2015 the Common Core State Standards.
2. A student with an Individual Education Plan who does not meet the performance level for the non-IEP student, on the recommendation of the IEP team, will not have to repeat the course: however, the course will not be given credit for graduation.

What has happened in the previous four years?

In the last four years, none of our IEP students failed to meet the performance levels for the non-IEP student. In some cases, IEP students who did not initially meet the performance levels repeated the courses either during the school year or summer school. For IEP students, Central City Value School has accepted mastery at 60% or higher, based on the recommendation of the IEP team.

What will the practice be in the next five years?

Central City Value School will continue to accept mastery at 60% or higher based on the recommendation of the IEP team. The goal of the school is to challenge IEP students to work toward completing the a-g requirements and enrolling in advanced placement courses.

3. Meet or exceed annual AYP targets each year or in aggregate over the next five years.

What happened in the past four years?

In the school year 2008-09 and 2009-10, the school did not meet the AYP targets. The school met the AYP target in 2010-11. This issue is addressed further in Question 6.

What will happen in the next five years?

The school will work to meet the AYP in the next five years. We will work to meet the requirements in mathematics in order to exit program improvement. For English learners, we will improve our percent proficient on the California Standardized Tests reported on AYP to meet or exceed our Title III goals. When the Common Core State Standards are used, we will align our goals accordingly.

4. All students classified as English language learners will advance at least one English language development level during each school year.
What happened in the previous four years?

During the first three of the last four years, the school was below the state target for English learners advancing at least one English language development level from one year to the next. Since the implementation of the Title III plan in January of 2012, we have exceeded the state target of 56% and have reached 67.4%.

What will happen in the next five years?

Central City Value School will continue to implement the Title III plan for English learners with the goal of meeting or exceeding the state targets each year. Included in that plan are professional development sessions, peer and administrative observation cycles, and formative assessments. Additionally, English language development and reinforcement will be included in our summer school program. This is discussed further in Elements 1 and 2.

5. An API score of 720 by 2013.

What happened in the last four years?

The school raised the API score each year over the last four years meeting the state requirements. In 2009 we increased our score by 27 points to 647. In 2010 we increased 15 points to 662. A dramatic 77 point increase was posted after the 2011 school year raising our API score to 738. In 2012 the API score leveled at 735.
What will happen in the next five years?

Central City will meet or exceed the state required target each year.

6. Meeting the AYP percentage tested requirements, the percentage proficient or advanced requirements and the graduation rate requirements each year.

What happened in the last four years?

Although we did not meet our AYP percent proficient and advanced targets in English or math in 08-09 we have seen a steady improvement over the last four years. In 2009-10 we met our AYP proficient and advanced target in English but not in math. In 2010-2011, we met our AYP proficient targets in both English and math.

In 2008 our graduation rate was 96%. After that year the graduation rate used for AYP was converted to a 4 year cohort graduation rate and although our actual graduation rate was 94.3%, our cohort rate was 80%. Therefore we did not meet our 2009 graduation target for AYP. Subsequently, Central City has met its AYP cohort graduation rate each year.

* or change of 0.1 or a 2-year change of at least 0.2.

What will have happen in the next five years?

Central City Value High School will meet or exceed our AYP graduation targets and our AYP percent proficient targets in English and mathematics.

7. 80% of students receive a satisfactory or better rating of their behavior as assessed by the faculty on progress reports.

What has happened in the past four years?

We did not measure students’ behavior on the progress reports for the last four years. The Dean of Students recorded each student’s discipline record through a violation system. Over the last four years, the number of suspensions has decreased (see Element 2).

What will we do in the next five years?

During the next five years we will continue to monitor the students’ behavior rating in the Dean’s office. We expect our suspension levels to continue to decrease to the 5% level.

8. Less than 5% of the total enrollment is suspended or expelled for fighting, harassing other students and disrespect for faculty and staff.

For the last four years the percentage of suspensions has decreased 2% each year and now stands at 7.89%. The number of expulsions in the 2008-09 school year was zero. During the 2009-10 school year we had one expulsion. For the 2010-11 school year we had one expulsion and in the 2011-12 school year we had no expulsions.

What will happen in the next five years?

The number of suspensions will continue to decrease by 2% to less than 5%. The number of expulsions will continue to be statistically insignificant.

9. There is an average daily attendance of 95% or at least a one-percentage point improvement over the previous year.

Over the last four years, we improved our attendance.

What will happen in the next five years?

We will continue to maintain an average attendance rate of 95% or higher.

10. 75% of the students feel accepted by their teachers and their peers as measured by student surveys.

What has happened in the previous four years?
Before 2012, we did not survey the students specifically on this topic. However, during the spring semester of 2012 the students surveys indicated that over 75% of the students felt accepted and respected by their teachers. We did not measure peer acceptance last year.

What will happen in the next five years?

We will continue to conduct the student survey of their teachers to measure whether 75% or more of the students feel accepted and respected by their teachers. Additionally, we will conduct a student survey measuring peer acceptance each year with the goal of 75% or more of the students feeling accepted and respected by their peers.

11. More than 50% of the students offer service to the school or others outside the school.

What has happened in the previous four years?

The school provided community service projects so that over 50% of our students were able to provide service to Central City Value School and to outside community events and institutions.

What will happen over the next five years?

The academic advisors will keep track of students who perform community service hours throughout the year. The school will continue to provide community service opportunities which benefit the school and the community at large. A faculty member will collect the data recorded by the academic advisor to monitor the students’ progress. Students who fulfill the ten hour commitment per year will be tracked. The administration will indicate on the transcript whether a student has met the requirement. 50% or more of our students will meet the requirement of a minimum of 10 hours of community service per year.

12. All parents sign agreement with the core values.

What has happened in the previous four years?

The school’s five core values were explained to each student and their parents/guardians during enrollment meetings. It is important that both students and parents understand the core philosophy of the school because school policy and teacher decision making is based on the school’s values. When parents and students understood the school’s values and how they are implemented and practiced, their opportunities for being successfully were increased. Parents/Guardians acknowledged during the enrollment meetings that they agreed with the core values and signed our parent pledge form.

What will happen in the next five years?
The school will continue to meet with parents/guardians and students during the enrollment meetings to communicate the school’s core values. Parents/ Guardians will sign a form stating that they understand and agree with the school’s values. A parent’s decision not to sign the agreement in no way impacts the student’s admission or enrollment.

13. 75% of parents indicate satisfaction with teachers’ methods of instruction, and supervising student behavior as measured by parent surveys.

What happened during the last four years?

The parent surveys were not administered during the first two years. During the 2011-12 school year, we received and administered the LAUSD parent surveys. We are awaiting the results.

What will happen in the next five years?

Central City Value High School will administer the parent surveys each year with a goal of 75% of parents indicating satisfaction with teachers’ methods of instruction and supervising student behavior.

14. More than 60% of parents participate in more than half of the parent events?

What happened in the previous four years?

In the first two years, we collected data on parent participation, but did not meet the target of 60% attendance at more than half of the school events. During the last two years, we have significantly increased the number of events in which parents could participate. We have seen an increase in parental involvement, and while we have not met the 60% target, there is a significant increase in parent participation. Of note, over the last two years, we have reached 100% participation of parents for parent-student-advisor academic conferences twice a year.

What will happen in the next five years?

We will continue to have 100% participation of parents for parent-student-advisor academic conferences conducted once each semester. We will attempt to reach 50% parent participation at 50% or more of our school events.

15. All differences between a parent and teacher or staff are resolved within written timelines.

What has happened in the previous four years?
When a parent brings a concern, the problem is addressed as soon as possible and certainly within written timelines. Procedures for handling concerns are reviewed with parents at the first school parent meeting of the year.

What will happen in the next five years?

The school will continue to be responsive to the concerns of parents and committed to resolving differences within written timelines. The school will gauge the satisfaction level of the parents to this responsiveness on annual surveys with a goal of 95% satisfaction expressed.

16. All teachers and staff agree and support the core values.

What has happened in the previous four years?

During the hiring process the core values were discussed and candidates who became employees demonstrated understanding and supported the values. The core values and their implementation with students were discussed during professional development sessions with faculty and staff. In 2011, the faculty and staff received training on how to connect the core values with the California State Standards or relevant standards in every lesson during each class period.

What will happen in the next five years?

The administration will continue to use the core values in the interview process to determine whether a teacher is fit to work at Central City Value High School. The administration will continue to train existing faculty and staff on methods of imparting the values to students throughout the school day. Additionally, during the next two years faculty and staff will receive training on how to link the values to the Common Core State Standards. Coaches and extracurricular moderators will be trained to impart the core values to students.

What will happen in the next five years?

The school will continue to meet or exceed the 70% annual teacher retention rate target.
18. The academic achievement standards at the class level presented above are met.

What has happened in the previous four years?

The purpose of this objective was to gauge teacher performance based on student achievement. To assess teacher performance, Central City Value School has developed, with teacher input, a new evaluation system. The components of the system include academic measurements (CST and benchmark exams), demonstration of teaching skills and sound classroom management, administrative assessment of the support for the school’s core values, and participation in professional development. The school has begun to use this evaluation to determine a “professional based compensation” salary increase.

What will happen in the next five years?

The school will continue to use the “professional based compensation” system to gauge teacher performance on student achievement.

19. There is 95% attendance at staff meeting and staff development programs.

What happened during the last four years?

Attendance at staff meetings and staff development programs are mandatory at Central City Value School. The 95% attendance rate requirement was met or exceeded during the last four years.

What will happen in the next five years?

We expect to meet or exceed 95% attendance at staff meetings and staff development programs during the next five years.

20. 50% of the 10th grade students taking the CAHSEE for the first time will pass either the language art or mathematics portion of the test.

The school will increase the percentage by 2% each year, starting at 54%, over the next five years.

Academic Achievement Data

Central City Value High School has increased the percentage of students who are proficient or advanced in English language arts and in mathematics and reduced the percentage of those below basic and far below basic. The following charts show the growth from its first year of testing 2003-04 through the past school year 2011-12. The bars show the percentage of students achieving at the five performance levels and the table displays the numbers of students.
The school has also made significant strides in the areas of social sciences and science as demonstrated on the graphs below:

Summary: Mission Accomplished

The clear and strong advancement of student achievement demonstrates that Central City Value High School is accomplishing its mission; it provides an education that is superior to the area traditional high schools that serve a similar population of students. Central City Value High School’s attractiveness to parents is shown in the consistently increasing enrollments and its high level of attendance. Central City Value High School has implemented a values-based program that research has shown effective and now Central City Value is proving that it works.

II. WASC Accreditation

In February 2012, the WASC team visited Central City Value School for their three year term revisit. The school received the maximum three year accreditation, which fulfills the final three years of the six-year cycle. The February 2012 visit was a midterm review. The next visit is scheduled for the spring of 2015. The committee made the following eight commendations related to the progress made since the last visit three years prior to this visit:

1. The school has developed a full professional development plan.
2. The staff, students, parents and administration have seen an increase in morale. They all feel as they are an important part of the success of Central City Value School. There is a true sense of community pervasiveness throughout the school.
3. The students, teachers and parents feel they have the full support of the administration and are inspired by their focus and follow through. The passion of the administration creates a desire in the students, parents and teachers to exceed expectations.
4. There has been a significant increase in the school’s APR, the pass rate on the CAHSEE and the number of students applying to four year colleges.
5. The addition of a full time college counselor has proved to be beneficial for all stakeholders. Students and parents feel supported in the college process beginning as early as the freshmen year.
6. Central City Value School has added five new Advanced Placement courses to challenge their students and better prepare them for college.
7. The teachers and administration at Central City Value School have made a concerted effort to differentiate instruction to continually address the needs of their English learner population and have implemented new strategies and programs immediately.
8. The Student Success Team (SST) program is designed for prevention of intervention. This program is set to target struggling students in goal setting, strength analysis, and organization in order to experience success in classes.

In addition, the visiting team made the following recommendations for the school to prioritize and focus on for improving the school:
1. A formal structure to the Advisory Period to access all the areas they have outlined as part of their Advisory program: college information, grade monitoring, relationship building and community meetings. The reduction of the Advisory period to twenty minutes has directly impacted the Student Success Team program.

2. The school needs to address the role and responsibilities of the resource specialist to meet the ever increasing Special Education population at Central City Value School. Attention needs to be paid to the current Special Education program, so classroom teachers and the resource specialist can meet the needs of the students with IEP’s.

3. Through parent, student, and teacher conversations, it is apparent that there is a critical need for an increase in the amount of technology available for student and teacher use.

4. While Central City Value School had increased the use of differentiated instruction, more is still needed, particularly in the area of mathematics, which will assist the school in reaching their goal of math proficiency for all.

The Administration and faculty members met during the summer of 2012 to address the recommendations made by the WASC visiting team. First, the philosophy and the teachers’ and students’ responsibilities within the Advisory program were articulated and documented. The formal structure and expectations of the advisory program were explained to the entire faculty during professional sessions at the beginning of the 2012 school year. Moreover, the advisors, along with the principal, explained the responsibilities of the students during advisory period during the first two weeks of school this year. Second, the Technology Committee met to decide how to spend available Microsoft Foundation funds to enhance the availability of technology at the school. LCD projectors were purchased with the available funds with the results that every classroom now has a projector and every teacher, along with every student, has access to this technology for educational uses. The School Site Council met in September to discuss the options and strategies to gain access to more technology for teachers and students. Third, in September, the administration conducted the first of a series of professional development sessions to meet the recommendations for increased differentiated instruction and the role and responsibilities of the resource specialist.

III. Work of the Governing Board

The Board of Directors for Central City Value High School has played and continues to play a significant role in the life of the school. The board has functioned in two principal capacities.

First, it has affirmed the mission and vision for the school and holds the school accountable to the fulfillment of the mission and vision. It does this by monitoring the performance of the school most immediately in its academic performance. Recently the board has established a Committee on Accountability and Performance. This committee works with staff to examine the ways in which the school determines its success. It considers the elements in the school that are being measured, the means by which they are measured, the timing of the measurements and the ways in which results are being reported. The committee regularly reports to the board its findings to help the board fulfill its responsibility for ensuring a successful educational program.

Second, the board has worked diligently to ensure the financial stability of the school. It has carefully monitored the budget and business operations and it has increased its efforts at seeking additional funds for the operation of the school.
A strength of the board’s role has been establishing a balance between giving school administrators autonomy in operating the school and holding those administrators accountable for performance and growth.

IV. Special Issues

English Language Learners

In 2010-2011 the administration and academic council at Central City Value began to place a stronger emphasis on SDAIE strategies for English Language Learners, Content Literacy and in particular differentiation strategies for all students. This gained momentum when the administration, in conjunction with faculty and parents, designed its Title III Plan which went into effect in January of 2012. This plan was created in response to several different factors that were making it clear that the school needed to do more for its English Language Learners. English Learners at Central City Value have comprised anywhere from a quarter to a third of the school’s population over the last four years.

Additionally, the majority of Central City Value’s English Learners were Long Term English Learners as can be seen in this excerpt from the 2011-2012 ELSSA table below which is typical of the spread of English Language Learners from year to year. In this table, another need the Title III plan addressed is the fact that these Long Term English Learners have stayed at the Intermediate through Early Advanced/Advanced levels without being able to be reclassified for many years. This caused the school to not meet the annual measurable objective (AMO) of moving an English Learner up at least one CELDT level from year to year.

The English Learners percent proficient on the CST’s in both Math and English has plateaued as reflected in our AYP, which caused us not to meet this category of the AYP altogether. The fact that we have not been able to move our English Language Learners from one level to the next is also reflected in our reclassification rates over the last four years:

Additionally, we realized that our number of English learner graduates meeting the “a-g” list class requirements was also quite low for the past four years. We have already seen an improvement though for the 2011-2012 school year since we implemented our Title III Plan.

As seen below, Central City Value has seen growth in the percentage of students meeting the first Title III annual measurable objective of moving up at least one level on the CELDT from year to year in 2011-2012. The school believes that this is at least in part is due to the emphasis in Professional Development on SDAIE Strategies and differentiation in particular begun in 2010-2011.

We hope to see even more growth because of the Title III Plan adopted in January of 2012 which addresses all the needs identified here and more through the following:

- Alignment of ELD standards to lessons in English and Mathematics in particular;
• The addition of pacing plans for Mathematics;
• The school implementing the UCLA Math Diagnostic Testing Program and the Gates-MacGinity to inform instruction at the beginning of the year and placement at the end of the year in Summer School or subsequent year;
• The administration of benchmark exams every 9 weeks to inform instruction and prepare all students, and especially English Learners to meet the standards;
• The creation of English language development classes for all English language learners regardless of EL levels on the CELDT including:
  o Beginning, Early Intermediate and Intermediate students receiving a regular block schedule class of ELD during the regular schedule;
  o Early Advanced and Advanced students receiving a 30 minute ELD class 4 days a week; and o Summer School classes specifically for English language learners designed to help them become proficient in English;
• A comprehensive professional development program that:
  o Addresses SDAIE strategies with a particular concentration in differentiation, cooperative learning, vocabulary development, academic discourse, meta-cognitive strategies and critical thinking;
  o Peer and administrative evaluation cycles and opportunities for debriefing for faculty and staff.

Program Improvement

Central City Value School has been in program improvement (PI) in mathematics for the last two years, both Year 1. In 2012-13 the school will be in Year 2. To address this issue, beginning in 2010 the school required teachers to use benchmark exams conducted every nine weeks to monitor students’ progress. Math teachers administered these exams, using DataDirector, and this action assisted administrators, teachers, and students in understanding what in the curriculum had been mastered and what concepts needed to be re-taught. This allowed the teachers to use these assessments formatively to plan their instruction. Further, students whose grades fell below a “C-” were required to attend tutoring three days a week until the grade returned to a solid “C”.

As an additional measure, the principal inserted himself as the head of the Math Department in 2011 to direct and focus the energy of the mathematics teachers. He met with each teacher and analyzed the data from several sources. We started with the CST results from the previous year. Goals for proficient and advanced academic status for each class were written for the year. Benchmarks and other assessments were administered, and their results were analyzed. To ensure accountability, the principal and other administrative staff frequently visited math classes and provided guidance for the instructors.

In the spring of 2012 the school received professional development in using the UCLA Math Diagnostic Exam. This was administered during the year to further identify the strengths and weaknesses of each student in the school, as well as to determine each student’s readiness for the next math course in succession. The teachers received the results of that data to further guide their lesson planning and to differentiate their instruction in the classroom. At the end of the year, the principal replaced teaching faculty who could not meet the high expectations for mathematics instruction at the school.

This year the principal appointed a veteran teacher from the science department to lead the newly combined departments of mathematics and science. The purpose of the decision was to have mathematics and science teachers work together to share best practices so that CST results in mathematics would be more in line with the results achieved by the science department. Also starting in the fall of 2012, the principal mandated that students, who were working well below grade level, attend one hour of mandatory tutoring using Khan Academy in the math classroom afterschool. This supervised tutoring program helped students work toward mastery of mathematical concepts which will assist them as they gain the skills and knowledge necessary in order to achieve grade level status. Lastly, math teachers were also required to stay until 4 p.m. to assist their students who need the extra help.

In summary, here are the steps taken during program improvement:

1) Principal provided leadership for the department
2) Thorough analysis of CST data and other assessments using:
   a. DataDirector
   b. Pre- and post-diagnostic tests
   c. Principal-led math department meetings
3) Formative and differentiated instruction
4) Professional development and practice
5) Replaced underperforming math teacher
6) Merged math and science department to improve teaching strategies
7) Required Khan Academy tutoring for students performing well below grade level.
8) Required math teachers to stay until 4 p.m. to tutor students

Special Education

In the past four years, Central City Value has seen an increase in the number of students identified with special education needs. The school does not turn away students with disabilities. Because of the increased ongoing focus on student achievement data, aggressive early intervention for those students struggling in acquiring reading and mathematics skills, and a strong SST program, more students are experiencing success at learning grade level and content area skills. The school provides students with IEPs with a collaborative education model which places them in the least restrictive environment in the general education setting. General education teachers are trained on providing accommodations and modifications, as well as other strategies to meet the needs of IEP students. On an ongoing basis, when a need is identified with a particular student, we test the student and provide appropriate educational services.

Most of the disabilities of students with IEPs fall into the category of Specific Learning Disability. There are students who receive speech services, vision services, counseling, behavioral interventions, and or the identified modifications and accommodations in the classroom.

Diversity

The demographic characteristics of the student population served at Central City Value High School reflect the neighborhood that the school serves. The following chart shows the similarity of Central City Value to the traditional public schools in which Central City Value School High students would have been enrolled if not at Central City Value.

!Central City Value High School Compared to Area Traditional Public High Schools on Demographic Elements 2011-12

- Median of Area Traditional Public High Schools
  - Hispanic: 88.5%
  - African American: 2.4%
  - White: 0.4%
  - Other Ethnicity: 8.6%
  - Free or Reduced Price Meals: 83.7%
- Central City Value High
  - Hispanic: 99.0%
  - African American: 0.3%
  - White: 0.0%
  - Other Ethnicity: 0.7%
  - Free or Reduced Price Meals: 98.7%
The school does not expect much of demographic change during the next five years. However, given the proximity to Koreatown, it is possible that the percentage of Asian students may increase.

Finances

Prior to the end of the 2011-12 year Central City Value High School carried on its Statement of Financial Position large loans from Value Schools. These loans caused the school to have negative Net Assets.

The reason why Central City Value had accumulated such a large loan balance was because of the practice of Value Schools to “loan” money that it raised through fundraising activities to its schools. The money was a “loan” with no interest changed and no payment due date. The hope was that at some future date the school would repay the “loan” and the money could be used for another charter school. As a matter of fact, the repayment actually occurred for Downtown Value School and probably would have occurred for Central City Value had state funding not been reduced.

The following chart depicts the last six years.

!Central City Value High School Intercompany Loan and Net Assets

</tr>

It is apparent from the chart the cost of the loans exceeded the size of negative Net Assets. If Value Schools had given the funds to Central City Value, the school would have had positive Net Assets. It is also clear that beginning in 2009 the school began to reduce its negative net assets.

At it meeting in June 2012 the Board for Value Schools adopted the following resolution:

Central City Value High School Charter Renewal Petition
RESOLVED that the Board of Directors approves transferring the loans from Mr. Robert W. Lovelace from Central City Value School’s Balance Sheet to Value Schools’ Balance Sheet; and it further approves the forgiveness of loans from Value Schools in such an amount that for June 30, 2012 Central City Value School has positive net assets of $50,000.

As a result of the resolution Value Schools forgave $914,850 in loans. The change in Net Assets is greater than the amount of loan forgiveness because in addition to the loan forgiveness the school had revenues in excess of expenses of $112,512.

Because Value Schools carried on its Statement of Financial Position a receivable in the same amount as Central City Values loan liability, the loan cancellation had no effect on the consolidated position of Value Schools.

V. Best Practices

Values Based Education
In the early 1990’s researchers began to examine why parochial schools serving low income and minority students produced greater academic achievement than their public school counterparts serving student populations with similar demographic characteristics. These researchers identified several key factors. These factors include a focused curriculum, an emphasis on academics, a school directly managed by the principal and a set of core beliefs and values shared by parents and faculty. (Bryk et al., Catholic Schools and the Common Good, 1993)

The most important finding was that the shared beliefs and values generated an extra social capital that propelled student achievement. One commentator on the research thought that the shared values created an inspiring ideology that gave meaning to going to school. Value Schools has fashioned an educational model that puts the shared values front and center. The values espoused by Value Schools are secular values and ones that can inspire and give a purpose to an education. Value Schools also emphasize academics and discipline in an orderly environment; it utilizes family involvement; and the schools are locally directed so as to be more immediately responsive to student and family needs.

Downtown Value School is very similar in the details of the curriculum and in the educational methodology to traditional public schools. The uniqueness does not lie in some “secret” curriculum or method. What holds the school together and gives energy to the learning experience is a common “world-view.”

Recent research by Samuel Casey Carter found that a school that created a culture that purposefully emphasized moral development had higher achievement levels. He wrote: “By telling the stories of twelve very different but equally extraordinary schools from all across the country, this book explains how they form student character, and ultimately, how great school cultures harness student character to drive achievement.” (Carter, On Purpose: How Great School Cultures Form Strong Character, 2011) To select schools for his study Carter examined the performance results from over 3,500 schools from across the country. These served all segments of the school age population and included public and private schools. His thesis can also be read to say what produces high student achievement is the same for all types of students, affluent or low income, minority or not, English speaking or not, and so forth.

Carter further wrote:

All these schools beat the competition in their local areas as far as academic and other student achievement is concerned. All of them far exceed the national performance levels for the populations they serve. Nine of the twelve would rank superior on any national ranking of any kind. Together they are just a snapshot of the more than 115,000 schools in the country, but they are among the very best—for they aim only bring the best out of their students—and they prove what is possible for every school in America. (Carter, On Purpose: How Great School Cultures Form Strong Character, 2011)

By emphasizing its five core values Downtown Value School believes and has seen that it purposefully develops a school culture that forms student character and drives student achievement.

Using Data to Drive Instruction

At the time of our 2009 WASC visit, two teachers were proficient with and regularly using assessment technology, i.e., Data Director, for formative and summative assessments. Subsequently in 2010, 100% of our teachers became proficient with and regularly used this technology in their data-driven instruction and assessment. In 2010, we began implementing the Gates-McGinity reading level diagnostic for all students at the beginning and end of the school year to measure student growth and inform instruction. The results of the diagnostic are used to determine the summer reading selection for each current student and for incoming ninth graders. In 2011, the Mathematics Department began using the UCLA Math Diagnostic Testing Program to identify students’ strengths and weaknesses and to measure growth and inform instruction. All students entering ninth grade are assessed using both diagnostic tests in order to properly place them in the correct courses and to determine the curricular path.

Based on the 2009 WASC Critical Areas for Follow-Up, #1, the school was compelled to provide school wide professional development in the areas of benchmark exams, Data Director, and instructional strategies. We now have mandatory benchmark exams every nine weeks, and mine the information through Data Director to assess student progress. This action allows us to re-teach when necessary, and use differentiated instruction to appropriately address student learning styles and various subgroups. Results of the benchmarks are routinely analyzed by the administration and discussed in Department meetings.

Contribution to Public Education in Los Angeles

Central City Value High School’s major contribution to public education is the superior education provided to its students. Using the California State Testing and Reporting program (STAR) as a means to measure performance, it is clear that Central City Value outperforms the traditional public schools in the area served by the school.
The following two charts use the Academic Performance Index (API) to make a comparison between Central City Value High School and traditional public schools.

Legend:
- Green: Central City Value
- Red: Traditional High Schools
Since Central City Value High School started testing in 2004 through the most recent test period of 2012, the school’s API has grown 265 points. The 2012 score was 735. This is compared to the median growth of the traditional schools of 131 for area high schools. The median score for area traditional high schools was 647.

The next charts compare performance on the 2012 California Standards tests between Central City Value High School students and those in area traditional high schools. Central City Value has a higher percentage (45%) of students proficient or advanced in English language arts than area traditional public schools (28%) and a lower percentage (15%) of students below basic or far below basic than area traditional schools (37%). In mathematics Central City Value had 11% of its students proficient or advanced compared to 10% of area traditional public schools. At the below basic and far below basic levels in math Central City Value had 66% of students compared to the area traditional public schools that had 70 % of its students.

* Data not available at CDE
Central City Value School expects that during the next five years the enrollment continue to grow until it reaches it maximum capacity of 480 students. The demographics of ethnicity, income and home language are not expected to change significantly. However, as students spend more years at Central City Value School, they become proficient in the English language and increase their academic achievement.

B. Mission of Central City Value School

Central City Value School facilitates the learning of secondary school students who come from underserved populations by providing a highly focused academic program in a community that will foster character development with a core set of values. The school’s mission is to educate its students so that they may become persons who make a positive difference for their society and their world.

Value Schools asserts these Five Values as the core of its educational model:

- Academic excellence is the means to a full life.
  Academic learning develops a person’s capacities to enjoy life, to live cooperatively and comfortably with others, to contribute to the economic well-being of oneself and society and to be an active citizen. Anything less than striving for excellence deprives both students and society. The fundamental means to excellence are teachers who offer expert instruction with high expectations for performance, students who are disciplined learners and standards of accountability for both.

- Each student can develop to his or her fullest potential.
  Each person is different, but each is gifted with talents and abilities. While each ought to excel in an area of special talent, each also should develop the whole range of human talents to the maximum extent possible. Schools have the responsibility of assisting parents and the students to identify areas of special talent and, at the same time, guiding students so that no area of learning is neglected.

- Each individual is unique and deserves respect.
  Each person has the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. These rights accord each with dignity that is to be respected by all. This dignity implies that in society there are rules that limit certain behaviors so that all might have the fullest exercise of their rights. These rules are the laws enacted by government, codes of conduct set by institutions, customs and practices found in civil society and the moral norms freely adopted by individuals. Good schools set high standards for student behavior.

- A safe, nurturing community is essential to academic excellence.
  Rules of conduct that protect each person’s dignity are not enough to create community. A community grows from common ideals and shared experiences. A community is composed of persons who genuinely care for each other and who seek the good for each other. In a community, everyone belongs and feels valued by the others. In community, each feels secure and is supported in efforts to grow in every way.
• Service to others and the community is a responsibility of an educated person.
  An education completes a person by developing his/her talents and abilities. However, an educated person is not satisfied only with personal development. Talents and abilities perfected through an education need to be used to make a better world for all. Community service is a benefit for the civic or economic life of society, as well as for the family, social groups and voluntary organizations.

Students will become self-motivated, competent, and lifelong learners who will make a difference in the world when they have fully understood the meaning of these values and put them into practice.

C. Twenty-first Century Education

1. An Educated Person

The Value Schools defines an educated person in the 21st century as an individual who is able to make a positive difference in the world through a thorough understanding of five core values. These individuals must demonstrate a desire to

- actively seek to continue to learn throughout their entire lives;
- have both the basic knowledge and skills that all persons can acquire and the refinement of those special talents that each person possesses;
- respect every person and work to promote the dignity of each person;
- show that by collaborating with others the community can gain more than what the individuals can achieve on their own;
- use what he or she has learned to contribute to society through employment, civic participation, family life, and community service

The basic knowledge and skills needed for the 21st century include the following

- academic excellence in English language arts, math, science, and social studies and all other college preparatory subjects
- the ability to gather and evaluate information, articulate ideas, and produce original works with confidence and clarity
- skill in using technological tools effectively, creatively, and responsibly
- a demonstration of the higher order thinking skills of application, analysis, synthesis and evaluation

2. How Learning Best Occurs

Value Schools promotes the idea that learning occurs in an environment where there are shared high expectations for academic performance and proper behavior, and a strong community of individuals dedicated to the support of the five core values.

To discover the best teaching practices for particular grade-level knowledge and skills, teachers are guided by experts in the field of learning.
Robert Marzano, who coordinated a research team to study instructional techniques in the classroom, published the findings in a popular book titled Classroom Instruction that Works (2001). Through a meta-analysis of hundreds of studies conducted over the years, conclusions were drawn that supported nine instructional practices which were particularly effective in raising student achievement. The practices identified as effective are the following:

- Identifying similarities and differences;
- Summarizing and note taking;
- Reinforcing effort and providing recognition;
- Providing appropriate homework and practice;
- Modeling and allowing for nonlinguistic representations;
- Promoting cooperative learning;
- Setting objectives and providing feedback;
- Generating and testing hypotheses;
- Presenting cues, questions, and advance organizers

In addition to receiving professional development in the use of these classroom strategies, teachers at Central City Value School have identified the following elements as important to their students’ successful acquisition of knowledge and skills.

They acknowledge that learning best occurs when there is:

- Appropriate motivation for acquisition of knowledge and/or skills;
- Balance of familiar and new concepts;
- Opportunity to immediately use newly acquired information;
- Frequent repetition;
- Diversity of models of work that illustrate high standards and expectations;
- Authentic and meaningful application of learning;
- Opportunity to transition from concrete to abstract thought;
- Appropriate and intermittent reinforcement and corrections during successive approximations to the goal

Ongoing discussion of appropriate and effective instructional strategies is an important part of continued professional development.

3. Goals of Central City Value School

D. A “Typical Day”

At Central City Value School students have six classes per semester. Our schedule provides 78-minute classes where a student would have four of his/her classes each day. The classes are on a three-day rotation. For example on Day A, students would attend periods 1, 2, 3, and 4. Day B would include periods 5, 6, 1, and 2. Day C would finish the rotation with periods 3, 4, 5 and 6. The Day A, B, C pattern repeats throughout the semester. Classes begin at 7:30 a.m. and the day ends at 2:53 p.m. Afterschool sessions include mandatory tutoring classes.

At the end of the first class session, students have a seven-minute break in order to decompress and prepare mentally for the next class. Students then reports to an advisory period, which lasts 25 minutes. The advisor takes attendance and students hear the daily bulletin. Students use computers during this time period to check grades on Power School, research colleges, university programs and scholarships. The advisor may introduce topics for discussion that are based on our values and goals.

Advisors use this time to develop relationships with the students, to monitor academic and social problems and to direct students to afterschool tutoring if their grades fall below C- in any class. Students can count on the advisor for academic and personal support. Each student and his or her parent will meet with the advisor each semester to discuss the student’s motivation and progress in each class.
One day each week, students meet in our community room for 20 minutes where a variety of sessions are held to reinforce the values of the school. The senior class meets on Monday, the junior class on Tuesday, the sophomore class on Thursday and the freshmen class meets on Friday. We call these sessions Community Time, and it is a vital part of each week. Students hear motivational talks from fellow classmates, guest speakers and school personnel. Community Time is used to impart our school values, and student participation during this time reinforces the importance of internalizing the values, which we hope will guide the student’s decision-making progress while at Central City and after graduation.

After the Community Time session or an advisory period, the student goes to a 20-minute nutrition period, followed by a 7-minute passing period before he or she reports back to a class for 30 minutes of Silent Sustained Reading (SSR) or an English Enrichment class depending on their classification. At Central City Value High School, English Language Learners receive a minimum of 2 hours of language instruction weekly through English 3D by Scholastic. Students not in the enrichment classes participate in SSR. After the English Enrichment or reading time, students report to their second class of the day.

At the beginning of each class period during the day, each teacher at Central City begins class by explaining the agenda for that class period. We want each student to clearly understand what the teacher expects from them during the class period. We believe that the explanation provides students with direction and motivation to learn. Included in this agenda is the academic objective, the California or Common Core State Standard attached to that objective, the school values and ESLRS that apply to the lesson and a coordinating warm-up exercise which focuses students on the objective of the class period.

At the end of the second session students have seven minutes again to decompress from the last period and ready oneself for the third class of the day. After the third session students have a 30-minute lunch break. The fourth class of the day begins after lunch. The school day ends at 2:53 p.m. If a student’s grade in any class falls below a C-, the teacher will require the student to attend a one-hour tutoring session in a designated classroom after school. The student will receive tutoring from a teacher or student volunteer. These tutoring sessions occur on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. The student is required to attend these tutoring sessions until the grade increases to at least a C-. In addition, any student who wishes to improve their grades is also eligible and encouraged to attend these free tutoring sessions. Students also participate in afterschool clubs and CIF sanctioned athletics.

E. Central City Value School's Instructional Program

Instructional Framework

Central City Value School is implementing the educational program developed by Value Schools. This program delivers educational services that result in students becoming successful in school by utilizing two proven elements: Values-Based Education and Accountability for Results. These are described in detail below.
An Emphasis on Values
In the early 1990’s researchers began to examine why parochial schools serving low income and minority students produced greater academic achievement than their public school counterparts serving student populations with similar demographic characteristics. These researchers identified several key factors. These factors include a focused curriculum, an emphasis on academics, a school directly managed by the principal and a set of core beliefs and values shared by parents and faculty. (Bryk et al., Catholic Schools and the Common Good, 1993)

The most important finding was that the shared beliefs and values generated an extra social capital that propelled student achievement. One commentator on the research thought that the shared values created an inspiring ideology that gave meaning to going to school. Value Schools has fashioned an educational model that puts the shared values front and center. The values espoused by Value Schools are secular values and ones that can inspire and give a purpose to an education. Value Schools also emphasize academics and discipline in an orderly environment; it utilizes family involvement; and the schools are locally directed so as to be more immediately responsive to student and family needs.

Central City Value School is very similar in the details of the curriculum and in the educational methodology to traditional public schools. The uniqueness does not lie in some “secret” curriculum or method. What holds the school together and gives energy to the learning experience is a common “world-view.”

Recent research by Samuel Casey Carter found that a school that created a culture that purposefully emphasized moral development had higher achievement levels. He wrote: “By telling the stories of twelve very different but equally extraordinary schools from all across the country, this book explains how they form student character, and ultimately, how great school cultures harness student character to drive achievement.” (Carter, On Purpose: How Great School Cultures Form Strong Character, 2011) To select schools for his study Carter examined the performance results from over 3,500 schools from across the country. These served all segments of the school age population and included public and private schools. His thesis can also be read to say what produces high student achievement is the same for all types of students, affluent or low income, minority or not, English speaking or not, and so forth.

Carter further wrote:

All these schools beat the competition in their local areas as far as academic and other student achievement is concerned. All of them far exceed the national performance levels for the populations they serve. Nine of the twelve would rank superior on any national ranking of any kind. Together they are just a snapshot of the more than 115,000 schools in the country, but they are among the very best—for they aim only to bring the best out of their students—and they prove what is possible for every school in America. (Carter, On Purpose: How Great School Cultures Form Strong Character, 2011)
By emphasizing its five core values Central City Value School believes and has seen that it purposefully develops a school culture that forms student character and drives student achievement.

Accountability for Results

In some educational circles today concern is expressed about measuring the success of schools in terms of student achievement. Value Schools believes that a school is successful only if students are learning and that learning is measurable by objective test instruments. For years private and parochial schools have been held accountable for results by tuition-paying parents. Schools that did not deliver what the parents wanted could not and did not survive. Although the business market model is not a complete explanation for what can work in education, that model calls educators to look to the products of schooling. That product is student learning.

Value Schools proposes that student learning is a result of a continual cycle of three critical elements:

- a clear set of student learning outcomes based on California content standards
- methods and activities for students that have been selected by professional teachers,
- continuous assessment (testing) to determine that the student has acquired the learning.

This approach to the learning process is not unique to Value Schools; in fact, it is the approach being more and more adopted by the educational community. Value Schools is different, at least for the moment, in that it proposes to focus its teachers’ attention on student learning performance and compensate (continue to employ) its teachers and administrators for success in student learning.

2. Delineation of the Core Subjects

Standards-based curriculum

A standards-based curriculum is one which provides for each grade level the specific content to be known and understood, and the specific skills to be acquired, in each essential subject area. The California State Board of Education and State Superintendent of Instruction have adopted standards-based curricula for the core subject areas of Language Arts, Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies. Central City Value School currently uses these California standards as the center of its academic programming.

Central City Value School also offers instruction in physical education and art.

As California moves to adopt the California Common Core standards, Central City Value School will adopt these standards as well.

Standards-based Curriculum
Central City Value School will use standards-based curricula that the State of California Board of Education and the State Department of Schools have adopted for the essential subject areas of English Language Arts, Mathematics, Science, Social Studies, World Languages, and Visual and Performing Arts as the center of its academic programming. The applicable content standards for the non-core subject areas (Freshmen Seminar, Becoming a Woman, Becoming a Man, Yearbook, History of Film, History of Music, Public Speaking, Psychology, Honors Physiology, Physiology, Art History, Life Skills, Global Issues, Introduction to Criminal Justice) will also be incorporated into the curriculum.

Subjects:
English Language Arts: English 9/Honors, Practical Writing, English 10/Honors, English 11/Honors, Expository Writing, English 12 Honors, Advanced Placement English Language and Composition, Advanced Placement English Literature and Composition

Mathematics: Math Readiness, Algebra I/Honors, Geometry/Honors, Algebra II/Honors, Pre-Calculus, Advanced Placement Calculus AB

Science: Physical Science, Chemistry/Honors, Biology/Honors, Advanced Placement Biology, Physiology/Honors, Physics

Visual Arts: Art 1, Art History, Drawing and Painting, Advanced Placement Studio Art: Drawing

Physical Education and Health: Physical Education I/II, Health

World Languages: Spanish I, Spanish II, Spanish III, Advanced Placement Spanish Language.

Electives

Courses meet the a-g admission requirements of the University of California. This includes four years of English, two years of Social Studies, three years of mathematics, two years of lab science, two years of a language other than English, one year of visual or performing arts, and one year of a college preparatory elective from the preceding content area.
Graduation Requirements: Students must attain 230 units in order to graduate.

As a college preparatory high school, a student who meets these standards will qualify for application to the University of California system.

3. Teaching Methodologies

Some schools and school districts have chosen a “top-down” approach to the methods and materials to be used in the instructional programs. In this approach curriculum experts choose the approach or approaches which they deem to be potentially the most effective. Classroom teachers are trained in the chosen methods and materials, which they in turn present to the students. In this approach teachers are guided more by the directives of the curriculum methods than the results of the assessments.

The Value Schools model at Central City Value School and future 9-12 Value Schools is not a “one-size-fits-all” approach. What directs the instructional process is student needs, not the dictates of a particular curriculum methodology. It is true that good teachers always analyze student needs regardless of who selects the methods and materials. The Value Schools model focuses the teacher’s attention first on the needs of the student, and then it gives the responsibility for choosing the most effective means to the teacher in collaboration with the principal and other onsite learning professionals. If the methods and materials are not successful, there is no blame assigned to the curriculum planners for poor decisions; responsibility is immediate and local.

Central City Value School is not organized around a particular pedagogical style; rather it is organized around the twin centers of the five core values and the student needs. Educators know a variety of sound pedagogical methods. Using their professional judgment, they determine the learning strengths and needs of each student and then differentiate their instruction to employ the most efficient way for each student to acquire the knowledge or skill set by the curriculum.

The determination of student needs is a result of two elements: the content standards and an assessment of student performance. The first task of the teacher is to determine the baseline of what each student knows. This is accomplished through a variety of formal and informal diagnostic assessments. (See the section on Assessment below.)

Once the areas to be learned have been identified, the teachers select evidence-based materials and strategies to facilitate student learning. If these are used with fidelity for a reasonable period of time, and still not successful in promoting student learning, then the teacher attempts another strategy. This continues until the student successfully learns the desired information and skill.

4. Requirements for success
For this teacher and principal selected methodology to be successful six conditions are absolutely essential. These conditions are implemented by the Value Schools CEO and the principal of Central City Value High School.

- Selection of the principal and teachers
The educators hired for Central City Value School must be persons who have both the professional training to be able to choose effective methods and materials and the confidence that they can identify student needs and utilize a variety of means to facilitate student learning. The Board of Directors and the CEO select the principal. The principal, along with a hiring team (administrators and teachers), interview and select the best teachers available. In summary, the teachers who are hired must display a willingness to continue refining their skills and knowledge.

- Assessment and Planning
The principal and teachers must work as a team to choose a coordinated instructional program within the school to meet student needs. An annual cycle begins with a review of the curriculum standards. Next is an analysis of available assessment results including: CST, CAHSEE, CELDT, UCLA Math Diagnostic Test, and Gates-McGinity Reading Level Diagnostic. This is followed by a determination of the instructional activities that will take place. Individual teacher planning then follows the team planning. Team and individual teacher planning include informal and formal formative assessments, nine-week cumulative benchmark exams to determine academic progress and instructional choices. This is the on-going cycle identifying needs based on the standards, followed by instructional activities, followed by assessment, etc.

- Supervision
The success of the program relies on the commitment and professionalism of the teacher to facilitate student learning. In the Value Schools model, teachers are not simply trusted to be professional. Lead teachers, the assistant principal, and principal supervise the teaching that takes place in the school. Supervision is not limited to coaching teachers on different methodologies (or the proper use of some chosen method); it is also directing the teacher’s attention to the California content standards, Common Core State Standards (CCSS), and the results of assessments. Other levels of supervision and guidance are provided through peer observations and reflective debriefings, as well discussions of best practices.

- Professional development
As in most professions, teaching benefits from the professional development of the teachers. So, Value Schools provides to Central City Value School opportunities for the continued growth of the principal and the teachers. Professional development needs vary with the achievement of the students and the experience of the teachers in any given year. Throughout the year, administration, Academic Council, and teachers set professional development goals and schedule workshops and training to meet these goals. Peer and administrative observation cycles are used to promote best practices and to ensure accountability.
5. Individual focus

We understand that all students must master the California standards and eventually the Common Core State Standards. At Central City Value School, because students come to us from many different schools and backgrounds, they possess disparate levels of abilities. Therefore, it is imperative that our teachers employ differentiated instruction and assessment in order to provide individual focus for each of our students. To assist teachers with this, Central City Value School has adopted two computer assisted systems (Power School and Data Director) for data-driven instruction and tracking student performance.

6. Research–based instructional materials

While the teachers must identify the specific learning needs of each student, they cannot be expected to design the learning materials to assist the students. Therefore, Central City Value Schools provides the teachers with research-based instructional materials to support the learning experience. The teachers are expected to use the materials when and where they are helpful to the students. When students require additional materials to master content and skills, the teachers are expected to research and request materials that will support student learning.

Summary of Teaching Methodologies

The Administration along with the academic lead teachers formed the core group of faculty who will be responsible for the implementation of the Common Core State Standards (CCSS). This group, which has already received professional development in the summer of 2012, will continue to be trained on the similarities and differences between the outgoing California Content Standards and the incoming CCSS. The Administration will make professional development opportunities available to existing faculty in order to inform them on how to successfully implement the CCSS in their classrooms. The school will use available technology and websites to compare and contrast the old standards with the new ones.

The instructional program is founded on the twin principles of the Five Core Values and student needs. As stated previously, Central City Value School is not organized around a particular pedagogical style; but its methodology is a continual cycle of applying learning standards, carefully selecting appropriate instructional materials and strategies, and ongoing assessment and analysis of student learning. This methodology is supported by the selection of the principal and teachers, assessment and planning, supervision of teachers, professional development, focus on individual students, and research-based instructional materials.

"Teaching" the Values

Because the five core values are so central to the program at Central City Value School, a consistent and purposeful presentation to the students is essential. There are three ways in which the values are presented to the students (and their parents): persistent communication, reinforcing the practice of the values by students and the modeling of the values by faculty and staff.

"Persistent communication" means that the values are being heard or read by the students many times during the school day. The following are some examples of "persistent communication."
At the time of initial registration at Central City Value School, the parent meets with a school administrator at which time the expectations of the school for the family and what the family can expect of the school are discussed. The five core values are the framework in which expectations are discussed. For example, the family is told that regular attendance is essential because the first value states that being successful in school is the means to a full and complete life, and if a student has poor attendance, the student will not be successful in school. The parent commits to supporting the values by signing a contract with the school. (This also serves as the Title I Parent Compact.)

If there is an issue with student conduct, one or more of the values serves as a vehicle for discussing the issue with the student (and parent). For example if a student is teasing another student, the third value of respect is discussed as how one should act.

During Community Time, after the Pledge of Allegiance is recited, the values are discussed with the students. The values are printed and posted in various locations in the school including each classroom, printed in student planners, and teachers use the current lesson as an illustration of one or more of the values. In fact, every class begins with a statement linking the academic objectives with one or more of the values of the school.

Reinforcing the practice of the values is done most frequently by praising a student or group of students for living out a value in the course of a school day. Alternatively, this can be accomplished by pointing out that a value has not been practiced. An example would be collecting student homework assignments. Students are praised for getting their work done in a timely fashion because it is an example of the value of academic success, whereas if the assignment is not done, it is discussed as not demonstrating the values. Student awards and assemblies are opportunities for reinforcing the values.

Finally, faculty and staff, serve as role-models for the students as they demonstrate the values throughout the day. For example they demonstrate the value of community by showing how teachers collaborate in multiple ways. Teachers also provide opportunities for students to build community by assigning group projects, performing community service, playing on sports teams, and learning effective and respectful social communication skills.

7. Evidence of Success

Using this model of instructional programming and delivery has been successful in producing learning results. As shown in the graph below, Central City Value School students have made significant progress over time in the core subjects assessed by the annual STAR testing program.
Because the instructional program is based on student needs and not on a particular curriculum, it has been shown to be effective with identified subgroups of students as well as the entire school. A student struggling with reading skills may receive additional instruction in a small group with “intervention” materials; a student accelerated in math may receive advanced curriculum or opportunities to compete in local or state contests. Obviously, this type of program presents a significant challenge to the classroom teacher to become expert in a variety of instructional materials and practices.
The following charts compare Central City Value School to the traditional public schools that its students would have attended if not enrolled at Central City Value. The first chart compares Academic Performance Index (API) scores. The second chart compares the growth of API scores.
The growth of API scores for Central City Value School and that the school is making greater academic progress than the traditional public schools in the same area indicates the success of the program with the population being served by the school.

Before a full-time college counselor was hired, exact statistics for the number of students accepted at four year universities were not available. However, for the last two years, 33% and 44% of our seniors were accepted to four year universities respectively.

9. Teacher Recruitment

The principal recruits teachers in two ways. The principal and the interview team (made up of administrators, lead teachers and other core faculty) interview promising candidates from the Teach for America program and candidates who respond to job openings posted on internet job posting sites. When possible, promising candidates are asked to provide a model lesson where the interview team can evaluate the potential teacher’s skills and knowledge of the content area. Lastly, the candidates the school chooses to hire must meet all of the NCLB requirements.
10. Professional Development

The Academic Council, made up of lead teachers in each academic discipline and various administrators, was empowered by the principal to work with him to discuss and implement academic policies. The Academic Council was formed to create a professional development plan to train teachers and drive school improvement. The Council has developed a comprehensive plan to train the teachers in differentiated instruction, critical thinking, metacognitive strategies, and strategies for teaching English language learners, content literacy, RTI, special education, and training in the educational uses of technology. Teachers have attended the Differentiated Instruction conference in Las Vegas and the California Institute in Palm Desert over the last two years. Teachers who have attended those conferences have returned to school and provided professional development for their colleagues in the areas listed earlier in this paragraph. The faculty meets a week before school begins to receive professional development in the areas of concentration for that school year. The school has regularly scheduled professional development meetings throughout the school year. The entire faculty participates in these sessions. The outcome of this professional development training is a well-trained and prepared faculty who are expected to meet the educational needs of each of their students. We have peer observations as one way of ensuring that teachers are using the teaching techniques learned during professional development. The administration visits classrooms on a regular basis to observe teachers applying these techniques.

As in most professions, teaching requires ongoing sharpening of skills and acquisition of knowledge. All teachers are encouraged to continue their education by attending graduate and post graduate courses, workshops, and training throughout the year. The school schedules five days before the start of the new school year to address professional development needs. New teachers are provided training in school culture and procedures, while returning teachers are given the opportunity to work collaboratively on student and classroom needs. Throughout the year, Wednesday afternoons are set aside for professional development and for teacher collaboration. Training in a variety of fields is provided, depending on the identified needs throughout the year. Experts in various instructional fields are sought to provide workshops at the school. In addition, teachers and administrators often share their expertise with the rest of the teaching staff through in-house workshops. This collaborative sharing has become a component of the professional growth evaluation of the teachers.

During the summer of 2012, the principal, vice principal, the Academic Council Chair, lead and classroom teachers attended the Common Core Implementation Institute in Monrovia, California. This group is responsible for implementing the transition to the Common Core State Standards at Central City Value School. Further professional development will be ongoing as developments arise. Planned professional development topics include, but are not limited to: critical thinking, English Language Development and Title III implementation, differentiated instruction, uses of technology in the classroom, successful adherence and administration of special needs students, and school-wide academic language development.
11. Bell Schedule and Calendar

School will offer, at minimum, the number of minutes of instruction set forth in Education Code 47612.5.

The school utilizes a rotating block schedule with A, B, and C days as delineated in the chart below. On Wednesdays the school has a different schedule, with shorter periods allowing for professional development in the afternoon.

Instructional minutes for each day are 383 minutes.

The school schedule operates on a three day block schedule, using A-Day, B-Day, and C-Day as delineators. Each day, students take four of their six scheduled subjects. Each class rotates through the schedule twice in each three-day cycle. On A-Days, the first four subjects meet. On B-Days, the last two subjects and the rotation begins again with the first two subjects. Lastly, on C-Days, the last four meet. Interspersed in the daily schedule are advisory, which meets daily, and the LE block (for SSR or English 3D classes) meets every day except Wednesday.

F. Meeting the needs of Student Subgroups

1. English Language Learners

“English language learners” are those whose home language is other than English and are not Initial Fluent English Proficient (IFEP) or are not Re-classified Fluent English Proficient (RFEP).

At Central City Value all classes are conducted in English with the exception of World Languages classes (such as Spanish) which satisfy the Foreign Language requirement for graduation. For students who are not proficient in English, the basic form of English Language Acquisition is through Structured English Immersion with the aid of SDAIE strategies. In addition, all students who are English Learners are provided with English Language Development. Structured English Immersion with SDAIE support strategies in the classroom, and separate ELD classes is effective with most of the students in helping them achieve at least one level of growth in English Development per year as measured by the California English Language Development Test (CELDT). However, Beginning, Early Intermediate and Intermediate students require a regular block schedule period of ELD, rather than a 30 minute period of ELD 4 days a week.

In order to ensure that all English Learners become proficient in English (and to exit Language Improvement Status), Central City Value provide English Language Development in the following manner to all students who are not yet re-classified as Fluent English Proficient:

1) Students who test at the Beginning, Early Intermediate, and Intermediate level on the CELDT receive an additional class of English Enrichment where they are provided with English Language Development in a regular block schedule class of 78 minutes (67 minutes on Wednesdays).

   *Seniors and students in honors classes who test Intermediate on the CELDT will receive ELD in a 30 minute class along with Early Advanced scoring students every day with the exception of Wednesdays.

2) Students who are at the Early Advanced or Advanced level on the CELDT, but have not yet reached the midpoint of Basic on the ELA CST Exam in order to be reclassified, are in a 30 minute period Language Enrichment class every day with the exception of Wednesdays where they receive English Language Development.

3) All English Language Learners are provided with an English Language Development class during Summer School in addition to any credit recovery classes they may be taking. An exception is made for a handful of students done because it interferes with them being able to make up credit recovery classes when they are juniors and seniors and otherwise might not graduate on time.

4) All teachers use SDAIE strategies to provide English Learners access to the CORE Curriculum and elective curriculum utilizing English 3D published by Scholastic.

5) To increase the retention of vocabulary for English Learners, teachers across all subjects with the exception of Physical Education will reinforce the acquisition of general academic vocabulary using a school wide method with a “Word of the Week” that involves adding to the definition as it changes slightly for each subject, providing an example sentence appropriate to the subject, and providing a visual to accompany each word (or prompting student creation of visuals) which students then say to each other. All subjects will also teach some content specific vocabulary using this same method each week.

6) All teachers will be aware of the Language Acquisition Status of each of their students and will use both cooperative learning in heterogeneous groups and differentiation in homogeneous groups to meet the needs of their English Language Learners. They will submit lists of these groups identifying the language acquisition levels of their students to verify they are complying with this school-wide practice. The assistant principal will monitor this process and student progress.

7) Math Teachers and administrators will regularly review the progress of their English Learners with the use of benchmarks and the UC Math Diagnostic Testing Program, and insure that English Learners are placed in Math classes according to their ability in math- not their Language Acquisition Level.

8) The College Counselor in Conjunction with the Principal and School Board President will continue to ensure the community also participates in the goal of motivating students to complete the UC requirements by arranged college tours, and career & college community member visits to Central City Value to further motivate students to put their best effort forth in meeting the UC requirements for graduation beginning in the 9th grade through 12th grade -ensuring access to EL students to these events.

9) The college counselor and each student’s advisor will also ensure that every English Learner has a graduation plan and will counsel these students to take the right classes, come to Summer School, and more in order to meet the UC requirements and graduation requirements.

Students at Central City Value are reclassified as Fluent English Proficient when they meet the following criteria:

1. When students initially arrive in the United States and test as Early Advanced or Advanced in their overall score on the CELDT and there are no domains are below the Early Advanced or Advanced level: they will be classified as Initially Fluent English Proficient.

2. For all other English Learners who test annually, in order to re-classify as Fluent English Proficient they must test at the Early Advanced or Advanced level in their overall score on the CELDT during the annual Fall CELDT administration. In addition, they must score at the midpoint of Basic, which is 325, on the English Language Arts CST test during the Spring Administration of the CST exams; AND they must receive a grade of a C or higher in their English class at the time of reclassification. Parents are consulted on the reclassification status of their child.

3. The assistant principal is responsible for determining which students have met the criteria for reclassification.

2. Students from Low Socio-Economic Status

In June of 2012, 98% of the students at Central City Value School qualify for free or reduced price lunches, which indicates that the students are of lower socio-economic status. The educational needs of students from low socio-economic status are the same as those for students from all levels. The basic strategy of identifying specific needs, teaching to those needs, re-assessing and re-teaching as needed is used for these and all students. The bench-mark assessment, administered every nine weeks for a total of four times a year, monitors the students’ progress. Classroom teachers and school administrators review test results and adjust instructional activities as needed. Those needing additional assistance receive help through the Student Success Program, after school tutoring, and Summer School for credit recovery.

Deliberate emphasis is placed on the value of an education and the importance of hard work in the achievement of goals. There is a conscious effort on the part of the teachers to refer to college admission and attendance as a desirable and achievable goal. Emphasis is also placed on learning the intangible social skills and body of information that parents and students must acquire in order to compete in the job and educational arenas. To this end, the advisory program is used to focus on students on college information and the five values. The school offers Back to School Nights/College Nights, college campus visits, an annual College fair, financial aid workshops, on campus college presentations, personal statement workshops, and one-on-one counseling with the college counselor all designed to assist students in applying to colleges and obtaining financial aid. The College counselor will also speak to students about their individual graduation plans. This ensures that students are completing the UC required coursework for graduation as well as providing guidance for college and career options.

Parents are encouraged through meetings with advisors, teachers, and the college counselor and through monthly parent meetings to help their children attain their educational and career goals. At Central City Value School, parents are treated as partners with teachers and administrators in the educational process. We have instituted and help maintain the Title I Parent Compact that regularly meets with parents, teachers and staff to devise goals to help our socio-economically disadvantaged students increase their academic achievement. The Title I Parent Compact created and implemented the Parent Call Center and the mandatory tutoring program for the school.

The Title I Parent Compact, the School Site Council, the Academic Council, and administration have also addressed the issue that many of our socio-economically disadvantaged students have trouble developing a wider academic vocabulary necessary for success in college. Two different strategies have been implemented to address this issue. The first is the assignment of Summer Reading novels to all students every year based on the results of the end of the year. This is done because it is well known that one learns vocabulary through reading itself. Also, the school has adopted a “Word of the Week” (academic language terms) which is introduced at the beginning of each school week by each student’s English teacher, and then reinforced throughout the week in all other classes.

For all underperforming students, including those socio-economically disadvantaged, the school offers free tutoring on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 3:00 to 4:00. Additionally, teachers are available to provide academic support after school. Finally, the school provides computers for all students to use free of charge to assist them with their schoolwork.

Due to the impact of poverty on social issues that often distract our students from reaching their potential, the school entered into a Partnership with Pacific Clinics in order to provide counseling services for students with Medi-Cal or those who do not currently have health insurance. The counselors come to the school and meet with students and are referred to this service through our Dean of Students who helps coordinate these services at our school.

Care is taken with each student and family to assure that the student is receiving nutritious meals and that there is access to health care, if needed. The administrative team and counseling professionals make social service agency referrals for such needs as free or low cost tutoring, mental health services, drug, smoking, and alcohol cessation programs, etc. At graduation each year, twenty-one of our seniors receive Values Scholarships funded through private donations, which help the families defray the cost of college tuition.

Gifted and High Achieving Students

The school offers a variety of ways in which to meet the needs of gifted and high achieving students. Upon entry to the school, new students are given placement exams in English language arts and mathematics so that students can be placed in the correct classes and other factors can be determined (reading levels, math skills, etc.). To meet the needs of gifted and high achieving students, the school offers honors and advanced placement classes. Furthermore, teachers are trained to differentiate their instruction within the classrooms at all levels. Opportunities are provided within the classroom to extend the usual curriculum in breadth and depth with anchor assignments and independent learning. Finally advanced students can work with our college counselor to arrange for enrollment at local community colleges for additional courses.

High achieving students are those students who have scored advanced on the English language arts and math CST. They have the opportunity to receive instruction at a higher grade level in some subjects. They are provided with “challenge” activities in lieu of regular assignments as designated in the published curriculum series. Teachers propose “teasers” or extension questions for a variety of assignments. Novels chosen for small group discussions are leveled to provide more in-depth analysis for the more able students. Open ended assignments provide an opportunity for gifted students to add breadth and depth to their learning. Rubrics are established to encourage and reinforce quality in student work products.

The progress of these students is monitored by the classroom teachers and school administrator through the benchmark assessments, which are administered four times a year.

Students Achieving Below and Substantially Below Grade Level

Central City Value School has created multiple structures to support students who are working below grade level academically. These include the Advisory Program, the afterschool tutoring program, and the Student Success Team. Additionally, the school also offers summer school and ELD classes for those who need the extra instructional time, an afterschool math enrichment program using Khan Academy. Lastly, many teachers offer their free time afterschool to meet with students who are performing below grade level.

The purpose of the Advisory Program is to boost the students’ academic success and relationships between advisors and students. Faculty members, who act as advisors, work towards building students’ cognizance of their learning and motivating them to become college ready. The advisory program illustrates all five of the school’s core values and our school’s expected schoolwide learning results (ESLRs) and functions as key support network for all students. It is also the primary mode of communication, enabling students to be well-informed members of our community. In order to ensure that students are receiving complete support, the advisory program provides direct communication between faculty members and students’ families. Advisors print or display grades, taken from Power School, each week and discuss the student’s academic progress made during the week with each student. Academic goals are then delineated and recorded giving the students goals and direction for the next week. The advisor is the primary teacher on campus who ensures that students working below grade level receive the academic support the school offers. Each semester, the advisor meets with the parents/guardians and the students to discuss the academic progress of each student. In addition, the advisor manages the students’ transcripts and works with the administration to see that students working below grade level are scheduled for summer school courses.
The tutoring program is designed to ensure that all students are prepared to succeed at the university level. Students must maintain at least a “C” grade in all of their classes in order to fulfill the California A-G requirements. The tutoring program requires students who are working below grade level to attend mandatory, free tutoring from three to four pm on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays each week until their grades are raised and their mastery of the curriculum is confirmed through passing grades. Parents sign an agreement during registration day stating that their students will attend the mandatory, free tutoring. During these tutoring sessions, students receive assistance from their teachers and from their peers. Teachers use this time to work with students on curricular assignments as well as organizational and motivational techniques.

If students continue working below grade level work despite the best efforts of their advisors and tutoring sessions, these students may be referred to the Student Success Team. The Student Success Team is an intervention program that assists students facing academic difficulties such as working below grade level. The program is based on the foundation that all students learn differently and that with the appropriate accommodations all students can achieve academic success. Each student in the program has a team comprised of their teachers, advisor, an administrator, the SST coordinator and parents. This team will take on the responsibility of assessing the student’s strengths and weaknesses and developing appropriate interventions to help the student improve to grade level academic work.

Moreover, the school has been able to offer students who work below grade level the opportunity to attend summer school sessions. Offering the students additional instruction during the summer gives them an opportunity to improve their understanding and mastery of the California standards. Summer school is also used to provide further ELD instruction as delineated by our Title III plan. Further, during the summers, students are required to complete their summer reading, which are based on their reading levels as determined by administration of the Gates-McGinity Reading level test. Teachers set goals to students to raise their reading levels two grades each year and use differentiated instruction and active reading strategies to assist students as they work toward the goal.

Additionally, students who are functioning below grade level in math may be directed to our afterschool intervention, in which students received tutoring on their specific deficiencies. Teachers organize and provide assistance in directing the students on a course of training using Khan Academy to target the deficiencies. Students remain in this program until they have demonstrated mastery of the course-level standards.

Finally, all students complete a graduation plan that is updated each semester, which allows the students to keep track of their progress towards graduation. For those who need to make up credits in order to graduate on time, they are offered summer school at Central City Value School. Students are also counseled to seek credit recovery at local adult high schools. In some cases, students are allowed to remediate courses during the traditional school year.
6. Students with Disabilities

DISTRICT REQUIRED LANGUAGE

Special Education Program
All charter schools must adhere to all terms and conditions of the Chanda Smith Modified Consent Decree (“MCD”) and any other court orders and/or consent decrees imposed upon the LAUSD as they pertain to special education. Charter schools must ensure that no student otherwise eligible to enroll in their charter school will be denied enrollment due to a disability or to the charter school’s inability to provide necessary services. Policies and procedures are in place to ensure the recruitment, enrollment and retention of students with disabilities at charter schools.

Prior to Los Angeles Unified School District (“LAUSD” or “District”) Governing Board approval, Central City Value High School will either execute a Memorandum of Understanding (“MOU”) by and between LAUSD and Central City Value High School regarding the provision and funding of special education services consistent with the requirements of the LAUSD Special Education Local Plan Area (“SELPA”) Local Plan for Special Education.

SELPA Reorganization
The Los Angeles Unified School District is approved to operate as a single-District SELPA under the provisions of Education Code § 56195.1(a) and intends to continue operating as a single-District SELPA as in the current structure but has created two school sections (District-operated Programs and Charter-operated Programs) under the administration of one single Administrative Unit pursuant to a reorganization plan approved by the Board of Education on January 4, 2011 (149/10-11). Full implementation of the reorganized LAUSD SELPA will begin in the 2013-2014 school year requiring all District-authorized charter-operated schools to elect one of the three options available under the LAUSD SELPA. Prior to an Option election, all District authorized charter schools shall participate as a school of the District under the District-Operated Programs Unit. Prior to the beginning of the 2013-2014 school year, all District-authorized charter schools, other than those that have previously executed an Option 3 Memorandum of Understanding (“MOU”), will be required to execute a new MOU setting forth the LAUSD SELPA option election for the remainder of the charter petition term. The Charter-operated schools will not have a LEA status but will function in a similar role in that each charter school will be responsible for all special education issues including services, placement, due process, related services, special education classes, and special education supports. Charter schools may apply for membership in the Charter-operated Program section of the SELPA. These schools will receive support from a Special Education Director for the Charter-operated Programs.

Compliance with Child Find Activities for Conversion Schools
District-authorized conversion charter schools must conduct Child Find activities for students residing in its pre-charter attendance areas (including private school students), so that students who have or are suspected of having a disability and needing special education and related services are appropriately identified and, if necessary, referred for evaluation in accordance with state and federal law. Conversion charter schools must distribute the District’s brochure, “Are you Puzzled by Your Child’s Special Needs,” prominently display the Parent Resource Network poster and use other District materials to address the search and serve requirement of the law, (e.g., “The IEP and You”).

Modified Consent Decree Requirements

All charter schools chartered by LAUSD Board of Education are bound by and must adhere to the terms, conditions and requirements of the Chanda Smith Modified Consent Decree (“MCD”) and other court orders imposed upon District pertaining to special education. The MCD is a consent decree entered in a federal court class action lawsuit initially brought on behalf of students with disabilities in LAUSD. It is an agreement of the parties approved by the federal court and monitored by a court-appointed independent monitor. The MCD includes nineteen statistically measureable outcomes and facilities obligations that the District has to achieve to disengage from the MCD and federal court oversight. All charter schools are required to use the District’s Special Education Policies and Procedures Manual and Welligent, the District-wide web-based software system used for online Individualized Education Programs (“IEPs”) and tracking of related services provided to students during the course of their education.

As part of fulfilling the District’s obligations under the Modified Consent Decree, data requests from charter schools that are not connected to the District’s current Student Information Systems (“SIS”) are made on a regular basis. The requested data must be submitted in the Office of the Independent Monitor’s required format and are as follows:

The Independent Charter School Suspension/Expulsion Report, due monthly throughout the school year.

Paper SESAC Report and Welligent Student Listing Verification, due monthly throughout the school year.

CBEDS, which is due at the end of October of Each School Year.

All Students Enrolled December 1 of Each School Year, due at the end of December every school year.

Graduation Status of 12th Grade Students Enrolled on December 1, due at the end of June every school year.

The MCD requires charter schools to implement the District’s Integrated Student Information System (ISIS). ISIS is a suite of applications which is designed to capture all District student data.

English Learner Instruction

Central City Value High School is required to timely identify potential English Learner students and provide them with an effective English language acquisition program that affords meaningful access to the school’s academic core curriculum. Instructional plans for English Learners (EL) must be (1) based on sound educational theory; (2) adequately supported with trained teachers and appropriate materials and resources; and (3) periodically evaluated to make sure the program is successful and modified when the program is not successful.

On an annual basis (on or about October 1), Central City Value High School shall submit a certification to the District that certifies that they will either adopt and implement LAUSD’s English Learner Master Plan or implement the Charter School’s own English Learner Instructional/Master Plan. If Charter School chooses to implement its own EL plan, the instructional plan shall encompass the following, including but not limited to:

- How ELs’ needs will be identified;
- What services will be offered;
- How, where and by whom the services will be provided;
- How the program for ELs is evaluated each year and how the results of this assessment will be used to improve those services (annual report of the assessments)

Central City Value High School shall provide to CSD a copy of its entire, current plan upon request such as during the annual oversight review process.

Central City Value High School shall administer the CELDT annually. Central City Value High School shall also ensure that it will provide outreach services and inform parents with limited English proficiency with important information regarding school matters to the same extent as other parents.

G. Implementation

Central City Value School is completing its tenth year of operation. During this time it has implemented its entire program. As the school begins its third charter term the school will continue to develop its program by examining methods and programs that will enhance the school's program. Based on conversations at our Academic Council, School Site Council, WASC visitations, and yearly visits from LAUSD, we are implementing a technology plan that will make technology more available and accessible to more students. Included in this plan is phasing in more bandwidth and wireless access throughout the building. As we acquire new hardware and technology, students will be required to demonstrate mastery of word processing functions, multimedia presentations, research opportunities, and access to online curricular supplements, such as Khan Academy. Technological capabilities will be part of the curriculum in all courses.
Element 2—MEASURABLE STUDENT OUTCOMES

“The measurable pupil outcomes identified for use by the charter school. ‘Pupil outcomes,’ for purposes of this part, means the extent to which all pupils of the school demonstrate that they have attained the skills, knowledge, and attitudes specified as goals in the school’s educational program.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(B)

The anticipated skills and knowledge outcomes for students are currently based on the California State Standards for each grade level. In the near future, Central City Value High School will implement the new California Common Core Standards.

Central City Value Schools has established the following measurable outcomes. Achieving these outcomes demonstrates the five core values of the school:

- Academic Excellence
- Reaching Potential
- Demonstrating Respect for Each Person
- Creating Community
- Giving Back to Greater Community

Academic Performance Index Outcomes

- In 2007, in the last charter renewal petition, the API goal for Central City Value School was to reach 720 by 2013. In 2010-2011, Central City Value School achieved an API of 738.
- Before the end of the next term of the charter, Central City Value School will have an API 800 or above.
- Once having achieved an API of 800 or above, Central City Value School will not have an API of less than 780 in any year during the charter term.
- Central City Value School will meet or exceed annual API targets each year.
- In accordance with SB 1290 Central City Value School will meet or exceed annual API growth targets in the prior year or in two of the last three years schoolwide and for numerically significant subgroups.

The Academic Performance Index will be annually computed by the California Department of Education using those standardized test results and weightings as deemed appropriate by the Department of Education.

California High School Exit Exam

- According to the CDE, the 2011-12 California High School Exit Exam (CAHSEE) results were 84% pass rate for English Language Arts and 70% for Mathematics. Additionally, all seniors of the 2011-2012 class passed both CAHSEE exams or were granted a waiver (IEP). For all non-CST courses that are offered, our goal as measured through benchmark exams, final exams, and final grades that each student will score above 60% as successful completion of these courses leads to graduation.

The academic performance of the students will be measured internally and externally. The school will use multiple internal assessments. These include the use of teacher prepared or commercially produced test instruments (the “benchmark tests”) that will determine student performance levels similar to the California Standards Tests. These “benchmark tests” will be administrated four times during the school year (at the end of each nine-week quarter). The tests will determine both student achievement growth and also identify those students who need additional instruction in standards that have already been taught. The teachers will use Data Director software to track and analyze student performance. The external assessments are the California Standards Tests provided by the California Department of Education or its equivalent.

English Language Acquisition Outcomes

- In 2012, 12% of English language learners in grade 9 scored proficient or advanced in English language arts as measured by the CST. In 2012, 10% of English language learners in grade 10 scored proficient or advanced in English language arts as measured by the CST. In 2012, 6% of English language learners in grade 11 scored proficient or advanced in English language arts as measured by the CST. For each year of the next two years of CST administration, the percentage of English language learners scoring proficient or advanced on the English language arts CST will increase by 5%. By the end of the charter term, the percentage advanced or proficient will be an improvement over the results from 2013-2014 CST results.

- In 2012, 0% of English language learners scored proficient or advanced in Algebra I as measured by the CST. In 2012, 10% of English language learners scored proficient or advanced in Geometry as measured by the CST. In 2012 0% of English language learners scored proficient or advanced in Algebra II as measured by the CST. For each year in of the next two years of CST administration, the percentage of English language learners scoring proficient or advanced in math on the CST will increase by 5% each year. By the end of the charter term, the percentage advanced or proficient will be an improvement over the results from 2013-2014 CST results.

- In 2011, 54.6% of English language learners met their growth target by advancing at least one ELD level as measured by the CELDT. In 2012 67.4% of English language learners met their growth target by advancing one ELD level as.
measured by the CELDT. For each of the next 5 years, our percentage of English language learners meeting their CELDT growth target by moving up on level on the CELDT will increase by 2% points.

- In 2011-12 Central City Value increased its re-classification rate for English language learners by re-classifying 15.1% of these English language learners as Fluent English Proficient. By the spring of 2018 the school will re-classify at least 25% of its English language learners in that year.

Central City Value School will annually administer the California English Language Development Test (CELDT) to the English language learners. The results of that test will determine the growth in ELD levels.

Central City Value School will annually reclassify English language learners based on three criteria. To be reclassified the student must score intermediate or advanced on the CELDT, score at the midpoint of Basic on the English language arts CST, and receive a grade of C or higher in their English class in the semester prior to their reclassification date. Parents are consulted at the time of reclassification.

Attendance Outcome

- In 2011-12 the average daily attendance rate was approximately 95%. In each year of the next charter term the average daily attendance rate will be at least 96%.

Using the attendance records kept by the register-bearing teachers on Power School, Central City Value School will annually compute its attendance rate.

- In 2011-12 the truancy rate was approximately 17.5%. In each year of the next charter term the truancy rate will be no more than 15%.

Central City Value School defines “truancy” as an unexcused absence or an unexcused arrival at school more than thirty minutes late. Students who arrive late from school must sign in at the school office. A daily record will be kept of the number of students arriving more than thirty minutes late. The record, along with the attendance record, will be used to annually compute the truancy rate.

Responsible Behavior Outcomes

Central City Value School emphasizes responsible behavior through its education and promotion of the values in Freshmen Seminar, during Community Times, at the beginning of each class, and during Advisories. Responsible behavior is handled on a case by case basis. Parents are frequently involved in the interventions along with the student, advisor, teachers, principal, and the dean of students. Students who need further intervention are referred to the Student Success Team for assistance and monitoring.

Central City Value School will administer a satisfaction survey, and our goal is to have 90% of our students satisfied with the education they receive at the school. The school also keeps a record of student expulsions and suspensions, and can determine the number of students expelled each year and during the term of the charter.

- In 2011-2012, no students were expelled. During the last charter term, a total of 7 students were expelled. During the next charter terms, no more than 1 student per year will be expelled or no more than 5 students expelled in aggregate.

- In 2011-2012, 31 students were suspended. During the last charter term, a total of 267 students were suspended. During the next charter terms, no more than 25 students per year will be suspended or no more than 125 students suspended in aggregate.

Central City Value School keeps a record of student suspension and can determine the number of students suspended each year and during the term of the charter.

Parent Involvement Outcomes

- 100% of parents will sign an acceptance of the school’s values at parent induction conference.

After a student is admitted to Central City Value School the student’s parent or guardian participates in a conference with a school administrator to learn what the family can expect from the school and what the school expects from the family. These expectations are presented in the form of the school’s five core values. The parent signs an agreement explaining these values. (This also serves as the Title I Compact for Central City Value School.) The principal will ensure that there is a copy of the agreement in every student’s file. The parents’ lack of attendance at the meeting or the decision to not sign the compact in no way impacts the student’s admission and/or enrollment to the school.

- At least 95% of parents will attend parent conferences with the teacher twice a year.
Teachers holding parent conferences will use a sign-in register to determine who has attended the conferences. These registers will be sent to the school principal who will compile the percent of parents attending the conferences.

- At least 30% of parents will attend school-wide, monthly parent meetings.

Central City Value School will have a sign-in register for each parent meeting. These registers will be used to compute the percent of parents attending.

- At least 90% of the students will return to the school for the following year.

Central City Value School will annually determine the number students returning the school from the previous year.

- At least 85% of parents surveyed indicate strong satisfaction with the overall school program on the annual survey.

Central City Value School will annually prepare and administer a parent satisfaction survey to determine the strength of parent satisfaction.

Student Support of Values Outcomes

- 90% of the students will express their support of the five core values as measured by a survey.

Central City Value School administers a survey to assess the student support of the five core values and will administer the survey at least once each year.
Element 3 – Method by Which Student Outcomes will be Measured

“The method by which pupil progress in meeting those pupil outcomes is to be measured.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(C)

Internal Assessments of Academic Progress

The teachers at Central City Value School use a variety of techniques to assess student progress. The standards-based curriculum requires continuous monitoring of student achievement. Knowing where each student stands in relation to the relevant standards is essential to determining the next learning activity. Teachers monitor student progress through a series of test instruments that are available in published instructional materials, as well as tests that the teachers prepare themselves. Formative assessments include subject-specific baseline exams administered at the start of the school year, program pre- and post-assessments (end-of-chapter tests from approved textbooks) and quarterly benchmarks administered in all classes. Student achievement is also monitored in terms of the products of student work (reports, multi-media presentations, demonstrations, speeches, graphics, among others) usually accompanied with a rubric of performance and gathered into “portfolios” in some of the classes. Student portfolios are passed along from grade to grade to demonstrate growth in learning.

Four times a year the teachers administer “benchmark” exams, which are linked to the standards. Utilizing DataDirector for these benchmark exams allows the teachers to track student progress in a timely fashion. Teachers are able to upload assessments and receive immediate feedback on student mastery. Standards are broken down according to strands, and teachers plan for reteaching or enrichment according to the most current snapshot of their class. Results provide teachers and the school with valuable data on how students are progressing towards acquiring skills necessary to become proficient in their subject matter. Students not progressing at the expected pace are provided with extra instructional time in small groups in order to address their deficiencies. Results of the benchmarks are discussed during department, grade level meetings, and with the Administration as well as with parents twice a year during mandatory parent-student-advisory conferences.

Grading Policy

Grading practices are as follows

- F 59% and below: Insufficient progress toward meeting subject/course level standards
- D 60-69%: Below subject level standards/making progress
- C 70-79%: Meets subject level standards
- B 80-89%: Often exceeds subject level standards
- A 90-100%: Consistently exceeds subject level standards with quality

Teachers are encouraged to allow students to make up work when late or incomplete, so that appropriate mastery of learning standards can be assessed. Citizenship and work habits assessments are graded separately from academic learning standards.

Central City Value School Charter Renewal Petition
Other Assessment Instruments
Central City Value School has prepared surveys to assess parent support for the school and to assess how well students have internalized the five core values. These surveys are administered and analyzed annually and reports from the data are prepared for the Board of Directors and the school community.

The school uses Power School to maintain data collected; this includes attendance and tardy records, suspension and expulsions, and meeting participation. With PowerSchool, both students and parents can monitor academic progress remotely with an internet connection. Further, in advisory period, advisors monitor and counsel their students on their academic progress weekly, and twice a year hold a private parent-student-advisory meeting to review the student’s academic progress. Lastly, students who are at risk or who fall below acceptable levels are referred to the Student Success Team program, where their progress is monitored daily.

Central City Value School collects data on graduation rates, as well as college admissions to determine its success in getting students to graduate and preparing them for college.

State Testing Program
Central City Value School has and will participate in all the testing programs required of charter schools by the state of California. The results of these tests are published by the California Department of Education. The school regularly uses reports of the test results to communicate its success with the school community, and individual CST results are mailed to parents. The Board of Directors is provided with analyses of the state test results in order to monitor the school’s academic performance.

State testing implemented include the California Standardized Tests (CST), the California English Language Development Test (CELDT), the California High School Exit Exam (CAHSEE) and the Fitnessgram.

With the adoption of the Common Core State Standards during the term of the charter, Central City Value School recognizes that the California testing program may change. Central City Value School is prepared to utilize any changed or new testing program that the state may adopt.

Using Data to Drive Instruction
Central City Value School uses a variety of tools to gather and analyze data on student performance. In August of each year, teachers review the most recent CST results, using the online Data Director program to break down strengths and weaknesses, trends and anomalies according to subject, strand, standard, student, grade, and school. All teachers have access to their students’ information and are provided the time and structure to analyze student scores, check for trends, identify “gainers” and “sliders”, and begin to set goals for the coming school year.
The Administration, in conjunction with the faculty members, analyzes the academic data from benchmarks, CST’s, CAHSEE, CELDT, Fitnessgram, Gates-McGinity, UCLA Math Diagnostics to assess the effectiveness of the instruction. The administration can then direct faculty members to differentiate instruction where needed, participate in peer observations, and determine appropriate professional development topics for the school.

During the summer, all incoming ninth graders have been administered the Gates-McGinity Reading Test and the UCLA Math Diagnostic Test to ascertain reading levels and math levels for placement in appropriate classes. By the beginning of September in all grade levels, teachers have administered and analyzed their first subject-specific baseline exams. School-wide benchmark exams are then administered at the end of each nine-week quarter. These exams are coordinated with DataDirector so that teachers can track student progress on a frequent basis. Additionally, many teachers routinely employ DataDirector for other assessments in their courses over and above the required nine-week benchmarks.

The school uses a transparent approach to using all types of performance data. Students are kept apprised of their progress on reaching benchmark standards, and help set age appropriate short-term and long-term goals with their teachers. Data is frequently shared with parents on program, benchmark, and annual assessments, and student performance data are shared at parent conferences. The school has found that this transparent, team approach toward using data is the most effective in ensuring that all students make adequate progress every year.

District Required Language Testing

The Charter School agrees to comply with and adhere to the State requirements for participation and administration of all state mandated tests. If the Charter School does not test (i.e., STAR, CELDT, CAHSEE) with the District, the Charter School hereby grants authority to the state of California to provide a copy of all test results directly to the District as well as the Charter School. The District affirms that any such requests conforms to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, (‘FERPA’).

Its meeting procedures will comply with all appropriate federal, state, and local laws and regulations, including the Brown Act.

Since the board members for Value Schools are the board members for Central City Value High Schools, the by-laws and policies for Value Schools will specify the selection of members. The by-laws state that the current members will be appointed by the Board of Directors of the Value Schools Foundation (the "Sponsor"). The board of the Value Schools Foundation diligently recruits candidates who share the vision of Value Schools and who have the capacity to make a contribution to the advancement of the mission of Value Schools. Most board members have more than one gift to give. Current board members are invited to submit candidates for consideration to be elected to the board. The board will also consider candidates recommended by the school community. They are interviewed by the chair of the board and at least one other board member. At least seventy-two hours prior to the meeting of either body, the meeting agenda will be posted in the same location as the notice of dates and locations. The meetings will comply with all Brown Act timelines.

Agendas and minutes of the previous meeting will be made available by other means (e.g. e-mail, web posting, etc) 72 hours in advance of regular meetings and 24 hours in advance of special meetings in accordance with the Brown Act. Copies of the minutes can be requested in the Charter School's main office.

To the extent possible the meetings of both bodies will be held in a location sufficiently large to accommodate most, if not all, members of the public to attend. Element 5: Employee Qualifications

“The qualifications to be met by individuals to be employed by the school.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(E)

General Requirements

1. Demonstrate commitment to the five core values.
2. Provide evidence of having cleared a criminal background check.
3. Meet all health code requirements
4. Meet all other requirements set forth in law and regulation.

Qualifications for principal
To be the principal for Central City Value High School, one must have the relevant experience or appropriate preparation for the kind of leadership and decision-making required in a charter school. The relevant experience would include being a principal in a private or parochial school or a principal in a “site-based-managed” public school. Appropriate preparation would include 1.) on-the-job training by having been a vice-principal (or equivalent position with a different title) in a private, parochial or site-based-managed public school or 2.) graduate level education in a program designed to prepare for leadership in private, parochial or charter school. A master’s degree in school administration (or equivalent) is also expected.

Qualifications for teachers
Teachers of core subjects, as enumerated in Element 1, must meet the requirements of No Child Left Behind and have the appropriate California Commission on Teaching credential, permit or other document equivalent to that which a teacher in a traditional public school might have.

Teachers of non-core subjects, as noted in Element 1 must have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university in the subject area that they will be teaching. An exception to the degree requirement can be made if the candidate has demonstrated proficiency in the subject area through years of professional experience.

Other educational and support staff
Classroom aides must meet the requirements of No Child Left Behind with at least two years of college (minimum of 60 semester units or 90 quarter units).

All non-teaching staff must have demonstrated competency for the position. This can be demonstrated through education, employment experience or the capacity to be trained on the job.

Selection
The selection process is absolutely critical to the success of the professional educational team. Central City Value High School will follow the employment policies, hiring protocol and job descriptions adopted by Value Schools. These policies and procedures are designed to determine three critical elements. First, they inquire of the potential educators directly through the interview process whether they are persons who have the characteristics of one who is committed to the five core values. The process also asks references about the characteristics of the potential employees; again to determine whether that commitment to the values is present.
Second, the process clarifies the expectation that the teacher is responsible for finding the means to educate each child. That expectation is confirmed by presenting to potential employees that their continued employment at Central City Value High School depends on student learning. As teachers they will be supported in their effort to find the most effective means, but in the end the responsibility falls on them.

Third, whenever possible potential educators will be asked to demonstrate teaching competencies by preparing and conducting a lesson in the grade level of the position that they are seeking. Finally, a determination is made that the potential educator has the knowledge and skills to be successful. This is accomplished primarily through a review of the references, persons who know of the candidate’s past performance.

Compensation

Central City Value High School makes an effort to compensate its teachers at least as much as they would make if employed in the Los Angeles Unified School District. The school’s compensation practice is to give a teacher in their first year at the school a salary that is approximate to what they might have received at LAUSD. In succeeding years the teacher is eligible for a cost of living adjustment in those years where one is justified by an increase in the cost of living, an increase based on performance (see below) and a longevity increase after the third, sixth and ninth year at the school.

Evaluation and Performance Compensation

Central City Value High School evaluates the performance of its teachers on six criteria. The first is student achievement and this measure counts for at least 50% of the evaluation. The teacher’s performance is measured by the value added by the teacher to the students in his or her class. Growth in student achievement is assessed by multiple tests given throughout the school year. These tests are to be highly correlated with the state’s standardized testing program. The second and third criteria are pedagogical skills and classroom management. To assess performance the school’s principal is to prepare or adopt a protocol in collaboration with the teachers. These two criteria account for 25% of the evaluation. The fourth criterion is parental satisfaction and is measured by a survey. The fifth is an assessment by peers of the teacher’s demonstration of the five core values. The sixth criterion is the successful completion of an appropriate area of professional development. These criteria make up the remaining 25%.

The results of the combined elements produces a mathematical score which in turn is used to determine the size of the performance compensation to be added to the teacher’s salary in the following year. The higher the score is, the larger the performance compensation will be. While Central City Value High School is committed to providing performance compensation to all its employees, the availability and size depend on available funding. Further it should be noted that Value Schools began developing this performance compensation during the 2009-10 school year and is still in the process of refining it.

The principal is responsible for ensuring that classified staff is evaluated.

The employee may use accrued sick leave for the purpose of entering and participating in an alcohol or drug rehabilitation program.

1.6.20 FMLA – Family Care and Medical Leave / CFRA – California Family Rights Act

Value Schools will provide family and medical care leave for eligible employees, as required by state and federal law, including leaves under the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) (which includes Military Caregiver Leave, also known as Covered Servicemember Leave), the California Family Rights Act (CFRA), and the Paid Family Care Leave Act (PFCLA).

DEFINITIONS

In implementing this policy, the following definitions will apply.

“12-Month Period” means a rolling 12-month period measured backward from the date leave is taken and continuous with each additional leave day taken.

“Child” means a child under 18 years of age, or 18 years of age or older who is incapable of self-care because of a mental or physical disability. An employee’s child is one for whom the employee has actual day-to-day responsibility for care and includes a biological, adopted, or foster child, a step-child, a legal ward, a son or daughter of a domestic partner, or a son or daughter to whom the employee stands in loco parentis (in place of a parent).

“Parent” means the biological, foster, or adoptive parent of an employee or an individual who stands or stood in loco parentis (in place of a parent) to an employee when the employee was a child. This term does not include parents-in-law.

“Spouse” means a husband or wife as defined or recognized under California state law for purposes of marriage.

“Domestic Partner” means a partner as defined in Section 297 of the Family Code.

“Family Member” means a Child, Parent, Spouse, or Domestic Partner as defined in this family care and medical leave policy.

“Serious Health Condition” means an illness, injury impairment, or physical or mental condition that involves:

1. Inpatient care (i.e., an overnight stay) in a hospital, hospice, or residential medical care facility, including any period of incapacity (i.e., inability to work or perform other regular daily activities because of the serious health condition, treatment involved, or recovery there from); or

(2) Continuing treatment by a health care provider (i.e., a serious health condition involving continuing treatment by a Health Care Provider as defined under federal or state law).

“Health Care Provider” has the same meaning as defined under the FMLA and CFRA.

REASONS FOR LEAVE

Leave is only permitted for the following reasons:

(1) The birth of a child or to care for a newborn of an employee or the employee’s domestic partner;

(2) The placement of a child with an employee in connection with the adoption or foster care of the child by the employee or the employee’s domestic partner;

(3) To care for a child of the employee, spouse, or domestic partner who has a serious health condition; or

(4) Because of a serious health condition that makes the employee unable to perform the functions of his or her position;

(5) To care for a parent, spouse, or domestic partner who has a serious health condition.

EMPLOYEES ELIGIBLE FOR LEAVE

An employee is eligible for leave if the employee:

(1) Has been employed for at least 12 months; and

(2) Has been employed for at least 1250 hours during the 12-month period immediately preceding the commencement of the leave.

Value Schools counts FMLA-CFRA leave using a “looking back” method, meaning that if an employee requests FMLA-CFRA leave, the School looks back over the preceding 12 months to determine if the employee has taken FMLA-CFRA leave during that time period. If the employee did take FMLA-CFRA leave, then that time would be deducted from the amount of leave for which the employee is now eligible. If the employee has not taken any FMLA-CFRA leave, then the employee would be eligible for all 12 weeks of FMLA-CFRA leave.
AMOUNT OF LEAVE

Eligible employees are entitled to a total of 12 workweeks of leave during any 12-month period.

MINIMUM DURATION OF LEAVE

If leave is requested for the birth, adoption, or foster care placement of a child of the employee or domestic partner, leave must be concluded within 1 year of the birth or placement of the child. In addition, the basic minimum duration of such leave is 2 weeks. However, an employee is entitled to leave for one of these purposes (e.g., bonding with a newborn) for at least 1 day, but less than 2 weeks’ duration on any 2 occasions.

If leave is requested to care for a child, parent, spouse, or domestic partner or for the employee himself or herself with a serious health condition, there is no minimum amount of leave that must be taken. However, the notice and medical certification provisions of this policy must be complied with.

SPOUSES BOTH EMPLOYED BY THE SCHOOL

In any case in which domestic partners or a husband and wife are both employed by the School and both are entitled to leave, the aggregate number of workweeks of leave to which both may be entitled may be limited to 12 workweeks during any 12-month period if leave is taken for the birth or placement for adoption or foster care of the employees’ child (i.e., bonding leave). This limitation does not apply to any other type of leave under this policy.

EMPLOYEE BENEFITS WHILE ON LEAVE

Leave under this policy is unpaid. However, an employee may be able to use accrued paid leave. While on leave, the employee will continue to be covered by the School’s group health insurance to the same extent that coverage is provided while the employee is on the job.

The employee may be entitled to other, non-School-provided benefits under any other federal or state programs such as state disability insurance benefits. The School is not responsible for administering any such benefits.

Employees may make the appropriate contributions for continued coverage under the preceding non-health benefit plans by payroll deductions or direct payments made to these plans. Depending on the particular plan, Value Schools will inform the employee whether the premiums should be paid to the carrier or to the School. The coverage on a particular plan may be dropped if the employee is more than 30 days late in making a premium payment. However, the employee will receive a notice at least 15 days before coverage is to cease, advising him or her that he or she will be dropped if the premium payment is not paid by a certain date. Employee contribution rates are subject to any change in rates that occurs while the employee is on leave.

If the employee fails to return to work after his or her leave entitlement has been exhausted or expires, the School shall have the right to recover its share of health plan premiums for the entire leave period, unless the employee does not return because of the continuation, recurrence, or onset of a serious health condition of the employee or his or her family member that would entitle the employee to leave or because of circumstances beyond the employee’s control. Value Schools shall have the right to recover premiums (or other sums due the School) from an employee against his or her wages, paid time off, vacation, or holiday pay.

SUBSTITUTION OF PAID ACCRUED LEAVES

While on leave under this policy, an employee may elect to concurrently use paid accrued leaves. Similarly, the School may require an employee to concurrently use paid accrued leaves after requesting FMLA-CFRA leave and Paid Family Care Leave and may also require an employee to use family and medical care leave concurrently with a non-FMLA-CFRA leave that is FMLA-CFRA-qualifying.

EMPLOYER’S RIGHT TO REQUIRE EMPLOYEE TO USE PAID ACCRUED LEAVES CONCURRENTLY WITH FAMILY LEAVE

When an employee has earned or accrued paid vacation or administrative leave, that paid leave must be substituted for all or part of any (otherwise) unpaid leave under this policy.

An employee is entitled to and may use sick leave concurrently with leave under this policy if:

1. The leave is for the employee’s own serious health condition; or
2. The leave is needed to care for a parent, domestic partner, spouse, or child with a serious health condition and would be permitted as sick leave under the School’s sick leave policy.

An employee may use vacation, personal or sick time concurrently with leave under this policy.

As a condition of an employee’s initial receipt of family temporary disability insurance benefits during any 12-month period in which an employee is eligible for these benefits, the School may require an employee to take up to 2 weeks of earned but unused vacation or sick leave (or all) prior to the employee’s initial receipt of these benefits. If the School requires the employee to take vacation, personal or sick leave, that portion of the leave that does not exceed 1 week shall be applied to any applicable waiting period for receipt of family temporary disability insurance benefits.
MEDICAL CERTIFICATION

Employees who request leave for their own serious health condition or to care for a child, parent, domestic partner, or spouse who has a serious health condition must provide written certification from the health care provider of the individual requiring care if requested by the School.

TIME TO PROVIDE MEDICAL CERTIFICATION

When an employee’s leave is foreseeable and at least 30 days’ notice has been provided, if a medical certification is requested, the employee must provide it before the leave begins. When this is not possible, the employee must provide the requested certification to the School within the time frame requested by the School (which must allow at least 15 calendar days after the employer’s request), unless it is not practicable under the particular circumstances to do so despite the employee’s diligent good faith efforts.

CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE OR TIMELY CERTIFICATION

Value Schools will advise the employee in writing what additional information is necessary to make the certification complete and sufficient. The employee will have 7 calendar days, unless not practicable under the circumstances despite the employee’s diligent good faith efforts, to cure any deficiency. If the deficiency is not cured, the School may deny the taking of FMLA-CFRA leave.

RECERTIFICATION

If the School has reason to doubt the validity of a certification, the School may require a medical opinion of a second health care provider chosen and paid for by the School. If the second opinion is different from the first, the School may require the opinion of a third provider jointly approved by the School and the employee but paid for by the School. The opinion of the third provider will be binding. An employee may request a copy of the health care provider’s opinions when there is a recertification.

INTERMITTENT LEAVE OR REDUCED SCHEDULE LEAVE

If an employee requests leave intermittently (e.g., a few days or hours at a time) or on a reduced leave schedule to care for an immediate family member with a serious health condition, the employee must provide medical certification that such leave is medically necessary. “Medically necessary” means there must be a medical need for the leave and that the leave can best be accomplished through an intermittent or reduced leave schedule.

EMPLOYEE NOTICE OF LEAVE

Although the School recognizes that emergencies arise that may require employees to request immediate leave, employees are required to give as much notice as possible of their need for leave. If leave is foreseeable, at least 30 days’ notice is required. In addition, if an employee knows that he or she will need leave in the future but does not know the exact date(s) (e.g., for the birth of a child or to take care of a newborn), the employee shall inform his or her supervisor as soon as possible that such leave will be needed. Absent unusual circumstances, such notice may be given in accordance with the School’s usual and customary call-in procedures for reporting an absence. The employee must provide notice sufficient to make the School aware that the employee needs FMLA-CFRA-qualifying leave and of the anticipated timing and duration of the leave. If the School determines that an employee’s notice is inadequate, the School may delay the granting of FMLA-CFRA leave.

REINSTALLATION ON RETURN FROM LEAVE

Right to Reinstatement

On expiration of leave, an employee is entitled to be reinstated to the position of employment held when the leave commenced, or to an equivalent position with equivalent employment benefits, pay, and other terms and conditions of employment. Employees have no greater rights to reinstatement, benefits, and other conditions of employment than if the employee had been continuously employed during the FMLA-CFRA-Paid Family Care Leave period.

If a definite date of reinstatement has been agreed on at the beginning of the leave, the employee will be reinstated on the date agreed on. If the reinstatement date differs from the original agreement date between the employee and the School, the employee will be reinstated within 2 business days, when feasible, after the employee notifies the School of his or her readiness to return.

EMPLOYEE’S OBLIGATION TO PERIODICALLY REPORT ON HIS OR HER CONDITION

An employee may be required to periodically report on his or her status and intent to return to work. This will avoid any delays to reinstatement when the employee is ready to return.

FITNESS-FOR-DUTY CERTIFICATION

As a condition of reinstatement of an employee whose leave was based on the employee’s own serious health condition that made the employee unable to perform his or her job, the employee must obtain and present a fitness-for-duty certification from the health care provider stating that the employee is able to perform the essential functions of the employee’s job. When reasonable job safety concerns exist, the School may require a fitness-for-duty certification before an employee may return to work when the employee takes intermittent or reduced leave. Failure to provide such certification will result in denial of reinstatement.

An eligible employee who is a spouse, registered domestic partner, child, parent, or next of kin of a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness may take up to a total of 26 workweeks of unpaid leave during a single 12-month period to care for the servicemember. A covered servicemember is a current member of the Armed Forces, including a member of the National Guard or Reserves, who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy, is otherwise on outpatient status, or is otherwise on the temporary disability retired list, in each case for a serious injury or illness. A serious injury or illness is one that was incurred by a servicemember in the line of duty on active duty that may render the servicemember medically unfit to perform the duties of his or her office, grade, rank, or rating. The single 12-month period for leave to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness begins on the first day the employee takes leave for this reason and ends 12 months later, regardless of a 12-month period established by the employer for other types of FMLA leave. An eligible employee is limited to a combined total of 26 workweeks of leave for any FMLA-qualifying reason during the single 12-month period. Only 12 of the 26 weeks total may be for an FMLA-qualifying reason other than to care for a covered servicemember.

QUALIFYING EXIGENCY LEAVE

An eligible employee may take up to a total of 12 workweeks of unpaid leave during the normal 12-month period established by the employer for FMLA leave for qualifying exigencies arising out of the fact that the employee’s spouse, registered domestic partner, child, or parent is on active duty, or has been notified of an impending call or order to active duty, in support of a contingency operation. Under the terms of the statute, qualifying exigency leave is available to a family member of a military member in the National Guard or Reserves; it does not extend to family members of military members in the regular Armed Forces.

Qualifying exigencies include:

1. Issues arising from a covered military member’s short-term deployment (i.e., deployment on 7 or fewer days of notice) for a period of 7 days from the date of notification;

2. Military events and related activities such as official ceremonies, programs, or events sponsored by the military or family support or assistance programs and informational briefings sponsored or promoted by the military, military service organizations, or the American Red Cross that are related to the active duty or call to active duty status of a covered military member;

3. Certain child care and related activities arising from the active duty or call to active duty status of a covered military member, such as arranging for alternative child care, providing child care on a non-routine, urgent, immediate-need basis, enrolling or transferring a child in or to a new school or day care facility, or attending certain meetings at a school or day care facility, in each case if necessary because of circumstances arising from the active duty or call to active duty of a covered military member;

4. Making or updating financial and legal arrangements to address a covered military member’s absence;
(5) Attending counseling provided by someone other than a health care provider for oneself, the covered military member, or a child of the covered military member, the need for which arises from the active duty or call to active duty status of a covered military member;

(6) Taking up to 5 days of leave to spend time with a covered military member who is on short-term temporary rest and recuperation leave during deployment;

(7) Attending to certain post-deployment activities, including attending arrival ceremonies, reintegration briefings and events, and other official ceremonies or programs sponsored by the military, for a period of 90 days following the termination of the covered military member’s active duty status;

(8) Addressing issues arising from the death of a covered military member; and

(9) Any other event that the employee and employer agree is a qualifying exigency.

LEAVE TO CARE FOR COVERED SERVICEMEMBER WITH SERIOUS ILLNESS OR INJURY INCURRED IN THE LINE OF DUTY ON ACTIVE DUTY

Eligible employees who have family members who are covered servicemembers may take up to 26 workweeks of leave in a single 12-month period to care for a covered servicemember with a serious illness or injury incurred in the line of duty on active duty. The leave may be taken intermittently whenever medically necessary to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness. Leave may also be taken intermittently for a qualifying exigency arising out of the active duty status or call to active duty of a covered military member. When leave is needed for planned medical treatment, the employee must make a reasonable effort to schedule the treatments so as not to unduly disrupt the School’s operation.

Spouses and registered domestic partners employed by the same employer are limited to a combined total of 26 workweeks of leave in a single 12-month period if the leave is to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness; for the birth and care of a newborn child; for placement of a child for adoption or foster care; or for care of a parent who has a serious health condition.

EMPLOYEE NOTICE

Employees seeking to use Military Caregiver Leave must provide 30 days’ advance notice of a need to take FMLA leave for planned medical treatment for a serious injury or illness of a covered servicemember. If leave is foreseeable but 30 days’ advance notice is not practicable, the employee must provide notice as soon as practicable—generally, either the same or next business day. The employee must provide notice of the need for foreseeable leave based on a qualifying exigency as soon as practicable. When the need for military family leave is not foreseeable, the employee must provide notice to the employer as soon as practicable under the facts and circumstances of the particular case.
Generally, it should be practicable to provide notice for unforeseeable leave within the time prescribed by the School’s usual and customary notice requirements.

The employee must provide sufficient information to make the School aware of the need for FMLA leave for these reasons and the anticipated timing and duration of the leave. Such information may include, as applicable, information to the effect that:

(1) The requested leave is for a particular qualifying exigency related to the active duty status or call to active duty of a covered military member, along with the anticipated duration of the leave; and

(2) The leave is for a qualifying family member who is a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness, along with the anticipated duration of the leave.

EMPLOYER NOTICE

When the employee requests leave under this policy, the School will notify the employee of his or her eligibility to take leave, including a reason for non-eligibility if the employee is determined not to be eligible. Such eligibility notice may be oral or written and should generally be given within 5 business days of the employee’s request for leave. Subsequent eligibility notice in the same 12-month leave period may be required when an employee’s eligibility status changes. Value Schools will inform employees of their rights and responsibilities under this leave, including giving specific written information on what is required of the employee.

When the School has enough information to determine that the leave is being taken for an FMLA-qualifying reason, the School will notify the employee that the leave is designated and will be counted as FMLA leave. Value Schools will designate leave that qualifies as both leave to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness and leave to care for a qualifying family member with a serious health condition as leave to care for a covered servicemember in the first instance. This designation notice will be in writing and generally will be given within 5 business days of the determination. Value Schools will notify the employee of the number of hours, days, or weeks that will be counted against the employee’s FMLA entitlement.

CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

Value Schools will require the employee who requests military family leave to produce a certification and may require the employee certification to be supported by:

(1) For leave for a qualifying exigency, a copy of the covered military member’s active duty orders and certification providing the appropriate facts related to the particular qualifying exigency for which leave is sought, including contact information if the leave involves meeting with a third party; and

(2) For leave to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness, certification completed by an authorized health care provider or a copy of an Invitational
Travel Order (ITO) or Invitational Travel Authorization (ITA) issued to any member of a covered servicemember’s family.

3.3.21 Pregnancy Disability Leave (PDL)

An employee may take pregnancy disability leave (PDL) if she is disabled because of pregnancy, childbirth, or a related medical condition, including prenatal care and severe morning sickness. The length of leave will be up to 4 months or the equivalent number of days the employee would normally work within the 4-month period. Intermittent leave or a reduced work schedule may be taken.

To better accommodate this type of leave, the School reserves the right to temporarily transfer the employee to an available alternative position with equivalent pay and benefits. Value Schools will also consider a temporary transfer if medically advisable. Value Schools is not required to create a position; to discharge another employee or transfer another employee with more seniority; or to promote or transfer an employee if she is not qualified for the position. PDL will run concurrently with other applicable leaves, such as FMLA leave. The 12-month look-back period will apply to all leaves granted concurrently. PDL may be unpaid, provided that an employee exhausts accrued benefits such as accrued sick or vacation leave. Value Schools will maintain health coverage for employees who take pregnancy disability leave.

PAY AND BENEFITS DURING LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Employees will be expected to exhaust their vacation or sick leave (if applicable) before going into an unpaid status. This requirement will be applied consistent with state and federal law.

Employees will continue to receive the same level of benefit coverage they were eligible to receive prior to their leave, in accordance with applicable state and federal law. If the School approves a request made by an employee for a continuation of a leave that extends beyond the leave period provided by applicable federal or state law, the employee will be eligible to continue his or her benefits through the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (COBRA).

1.6.21 Unpaid Leave

An unpaid leave of absence for up to one year may be granted by the Chief Executive Officer or by an authorized delegate for any reason under the following conditions:

a. There is a finding by the Chief Executive Officer or an authorized delegate that Value Schools and those it serves would potentially benefit by granting the leave.

b. The timing of the leave is such that it does not cause an interruption to school activities (e.g. is concurrent with a school year or semester).

c. The employee continues in any benefit plan entirely at his/her own expense.
d. The leave time is not counted for the determination of any benefits.

1.6.22 Per Diem Salary Calculation

Unless otherwise specified in an employment contract all permanent employees shall be considered employed for 261 days per year. (Each calendar weekday is either a day of work or a paid holiday/vacation/leave day.) In the event that a salary reduction needs to be made for an unpaid leave, the per diem rate of exempt employees shall be 1/261 of their annual salary and the number of leave days will be all calendar weekdays during the period of unpaid leave. If an employee has an agreement that specifies the number days worked in the year, the per diem rate is determined by dividing one by the specified number of work days in the agreement and multiplying that times the annual salary. For non-exempt employees unpaid leave is calculated by not compensating them for the hours of employment which they do not work.

1.7 Insurance

1.7.1 Health: Medical, Dental, Vision, Prescription Medicine, Mental & Behavioral Health

Value Schools shall maintain a group health insurance plan that provides benefits for medical, dental, vision, prescription medicine, and mental and behavioral health services. Full time employees and part-time employees who work at least thirty hours per week shall be eligible for the plan upon employment; provided that they meet any eligibility requirements as may be specified by the insurance carrier. All employees are subject to a three-month probationary period. Coverage will begin on the first day of the month following the end of the probationary period and the supervisor informs the business office that the employee has passed probation.

Value Schools shall pay a portion of premiums for the health insurance plan so long as the employee continues in employment. Exempt employees who work at school sites under an annual contract shall be considered in continuous employment so long as they sign a contract for the succeeding academic year prior to June 30.

The Chief Executive Officer or authorized delegate shall select the health insurance plan and shall specify the portion of premiums to be paid by Value Schools. Information about the insurance plans shall be given to employees upon starting employment, when there are changes to the plan, and at the employee’s request.

1.7.2 Group Term Life Insurance

Value Schools shall maintain a group life insurance plan. Full time employees shall be eligible for the plan upon employment; provided that they meet any eligibility requirements as may be specified by the insurance carrier.

The premiums for the insurance shall be fully paid by Value Schools.
1.7.3 Workers’ Compensation

All employees of Value Schools are covered under a Workers’ Compensation Insurance plan maintained by Value Schools. Any employee who is injured on the job shall report the injury to his/her supervisor as soon as is possible, and the injured employee shall follow the procedures specified by the plan for seeking medical treatment and for filing claims. Information on this procedure is available at all Value Schools sites.

1.7.4 Retirement Plan/Deferred Compensation

All eligible credentialed employees shall be covered by the California State Teachers Retirement System (STRS) subject to the terms of that system. Those employees covered by STRS participate in the Medicare portion of the federal social security system, but are not eligible for the OASDI portion.

All eligible non-credentialed employees shall be covered by the California Public Employees Retirement System (PERS). Credentialed teachers may, at their option, be eligible to be covered by PERS. Employees covered by PERS participate in both the Medicare and OASDI portions of the federal social security system.

All employees are eligible to make voluntary contributions to a tax sheltered plan.

Employees who are on the payroll of Value Schools (the nonprofit) and who are not on the payroll of a charter school are eligible to receive deferred compensation. This program shall be an Internal Revenue Services 403(b)(7) custodial account program for a variety of investment vehicles. Employees are automatically enrolled in the program upon employment and contributions made on their behalf by Value Schools become the property of the employees upon their deposit into the program. Details of the retirement program shall be made available to participating employees at least annually.

Hiring

1.8 Persons may only be hired for positions that are approved in the annual budget as adopted or amended.

1.9 By virtue of their position as Principal, all Principals are considered to be “authorized delegates.” The term “authorized delegates” as used in this section applies to all Principals.

1.10 Approved Positions for Hire

Before any position (except a temporary position) may be filled there shall be an approved job description for that position and the position shall be approved for hiring in writing, either by the Chief Executive Officer or by an authorized delegate.

1.11 Hiring Procedures

1.11.1 Announcement of a Position Opening
The announcement of a position opening may be done in whatever manner is determined best by the Chief Executive Officer or an authorized delegate, provided that an announcement of position openings is first circulated among current employees. The announcement shall specify, at a minimum, the title for the position, the minimum qualifications for the position, the materials that candidates must submit to be considered for the position and the deadline, if any, for submitting application materials.

1.11.2 Application Process

All candidates for a position shall be expected to submit a letter applying for the position, a current resume and a reference. The Chief Executive Officer or an authorized delegate may request more.

1.11.3 Selection of Finalist(s)

Before any candidate shall be considered a finalist for a position all submissions requested in the announcement of the position opening must have been received and reviewed by the chief executive officer or an authorized delegate.

1.11.4 Background Investigations

The Chief Executive Officer or an authorized delegate shall use due discretion in reviewing the background of any candidate who has been determined to be a finalist and shall undertake any investigations as may be required by law. All employees of a school require fingerprinting and a background investigation by the California Department of Justice.

1.11.5 Employment Eligibility Verification

To comply with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, all employees must complete Form 1-9, “The Employment Eligibility Verification Form,” and submit required documentation prior to employment.

1.11.6 Approval of New Hire

The approval to hire a person for a position shall be done in writing by the Chief Executive Officer or an authorized delegate.
Personnel Files
Value Schools keeps a personnel file on each employee. The contents of the file are confidential to the extent permitted by law. An Employee may inspect his/her personnel file and obtain a copy of all documents in the file that the employee signed. Please inform Value Schools Business Officer of any changes in personal information such as the employee’s address, phone number, marital status, or number of dependents in order to keep the file up to date.

Evaluations
Value Schools recognizes the value of performance feedback between the employee and supervisor. The employee’s supervisor may review the employee’s job performance at least once a year. The performance evaluation may evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the employee’s performance and determine what areas of improvement, if any, are needed. This is also a time in which the employee may set future performance goals with the supervisor. A good performance evaluation does not guaranty a pay raise, nor is it a promise of continued employment.

Outside Employment
Employees may engage in outside employment to the degree that it does not conflict with the interests of Value Schools. No employee is permitted to accept employment, whether for pay or otherwise, if the additional outside employment leads to a conflict or potential conflict of interest for the employee, if the nature of the outside employment will reflect negatively on Value Schools, or if the outside employment conflicts with the duties of the employee.

Drugs and Alcohol
Value Schools is a drug-free, alcohol-free environment. Employees may not report to work under the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol. Value Schools reserves the right to search, without the employee’s consent, all areas and property in which Value Schools maintains control or joint control with the employee for illegal drugs and alcohol. Refusal to allow for search when requested may be grounds for discipline, up to and including termination.

Employees reasonably believed to be under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs may be required to submit to a drug and alcohol test.

The legal use of controlled substances, such as prescription drugs prescribed by a licensed physician or over-the-counter medications, is not prohibited by this policy.

Inspection of Work Stations and Personal Belongings
Value Schools reserves the right to search any and all school vehicles, work stations, work areas, desks, file cabinets, lockers and other personal property of employees and their contents for illegal drugs, alcohol, weapons, and stolen property (collectively referred to as “Contraband”). Value Schools will conduct searches when there is reasonable cause to believe that you have Contraband in your possession. Value Schools may confiscate such Contraband and take any other appropriate action. “Reasonable “Cause” is defined as those facts that will lead a reasonably prudent person to believe that the employee has Contraband or the Contraband is in the area to be searched. Employees should have no reasonable expectation of privacy in school-supplied properties such as vehicles, work stations, desks, lockers, and cabinets.

Email, Voicemail, and Computer Policies
Value Schools reserves the right to access at any time all emails, voicemails, computer systems, and internet websites on equipment owned by the Charter School, and employees do not have any reasonable expectation of privacy in any emails, voicemails, computer systems, or internet access. In addition, employees are expected to use email, voicemail, and computer systems for school business only and not for personal use. Employees may access the internet for personal reasons as long as such access is reasonable and does not interfere with the employee’s work duties.

Employees may not use any email, voicemail, or internet website that may be disruptive or offend others, including but not limited to the transmission, receipt, or viewing of sexually explicit messages, cartoons, images, sounds, ethnic or racial slurs, or anything that may be construed as unlawful harassment or disparagement of others. Any such inappropriate use may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

Violence Prevention
Value Schools is committed to providing a violence-free and safe work environment. All employees are prohibited from engaging in any violent behavior in the work place. Such behavior includes but is not limited to brandishing a weapon, knife, or other dangerous object that could potentially harm others; physical violence or threats of violence; fighting; horseplay; verbal threats of violence; and any intimidating behavior.

Employees are required to report all threats of violence as soon as possible to their supervisor or to any other supervisor. Report all suspicious individuals or activities to the immediate supervisor or to any other supervisor as soon as possible. On receiving a report of any suspected violence, the school will undertake a prompt investigation and take appropriate corrective action.

Impermissible Conduct
• Employees are expected to abide by all work rules and standards and to avoid conduct that is detrimental to the school or to others. Following is a list of examples of conduct that is not permitted in the work place. The examples set forth below represent the type of conduct that employees must avoid but this is not an exhaustive list of all impermissible conduct in the work place. Any conduct that adversely affects Value Schools or the employee’s job performance or is otherwise detrimental to the school or other employees may also result in disciplinary action including, but not limited to termination. Impermissible conduct includes, but is not limited to:
  • Creating conflict with co-workers, supervisors, students, parents, or visitors;
  • Excessive absenteeism or tardiness;
- Being absent for more than three days without notification or permission;
- Failure to follow safety regulations;
- Using school property, equipment, and resources for unauthorized purposes;
- Failing to report injuries or damage to, or an accident involving, school equipment;
- Incompetence or inefficiency in performing job duties;
- Horseplay that results in personal injury or equipment damage;
- Spreading malicious rumors;
- Engaging in vulgar or abusive language or conduct towards others;

Anti Harassment Policy
Value Schools is committed to maintaining a learning, working and living environment that is free from sexual and other unlawful harassment.
1.14  Purpose of Policy

The purpose of this policy is to (1) familiarize all faculty, staff and students with the definition of sexual and other unlawful harassment and the forms it can take; (2) make clear that sexual and other unlawful harassment is prohibited and will be punished; (3) inform victims of the course of action they should take to report sexual and other unlawful harassment; and (4) clarify the rights of those accused of harassment.

1.15  Scope of Policy

This policy applies to all students, administrators, faculty, staff, program participants and visitors. Persons who are not employees, but perform work at Value Schools for its benefit (such as contractors and temporary employees), are also protected and required to abide by this policy.

1.16  Definition of Harassment

A. Harassment is defined as any conduct, on or off campus, directed toward an individual based on sex, sexual orientation, sexual identity, gender identity, race, religion, color, national origin, pregnancy, physical or mental disability, age, or any other basis protected by federal, state or local law that is sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter or interfere with an individual’s work or academic performance, or that creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive educational, work or living environment.

B. Whether particular physical, non-verbal, or verbal conduct constitutes harassment in violation of this policy will depend upon all of the circumstances involved, the context in which the conduct occurred, and the frequency, severity, and pattern of the conduct. Conduct does not constitute harassment in violation of this policy unless it occurs based on a legally protected characteristic or trait and is sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter or interfere with an individual’s work or academic performance, or that creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive educational, work or living environment. The fact that someone did not intend to harass an individual is no defense to a complaint of harassment. Regardless of intent, it is the effect and characteristics of the behavior that determine whether the conduct constitutes harassment. Conduct alleged to constitute harassment will be evaluated according to the objective standard of a reasonable person. Thus, conduct that is objectionable to some, but that is not severe or pervasive enough to create an objectively intimidating, hostile or offensive environment, is beyond the purview of this policy.
C. Because sexual harassment has been more thoroughly defined in the law than harassment based upon other protected categories, the following definition of sexual harassment is included in this policy.

1. Sexual harassment includes any unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other unwelcome written, verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

   (a) Submission to the conduct is explicitly or implicitly made a term or condition of an individual’s employment, academic status or progress; and/or

   (b) Submission to or rejection of the conduct by the individual is used as the basis of employment or academic decisions affecting the individual; and/or

   (c) Submission to, or rejection of, the conduct by the individual is used as the basis for any decision affecting the individual regarding benefits and services, honors, programs, or activities available or through the School; and/or

   (d) The conduct has the purpose or effect of having a negative impact upon the individual’s work or academic performance or of creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work, educational or living environment.

2. Sexual harassment may occur between members of the same or opposite sex. Further, harassment based on a person’s sex is not limited to instances involving sexual behavior. That is, harassment on the basis of sex may occur without sexual advances or sexual overtones when conduct is directed at individuals because of their sex. This is often referred to as sex or gender harassment and violates this policy.

1.17 Forms of Harassment

Unlawful harassment can take many forms and will vary with the particular circumstances. Examples of harassment prohibited by this policy may include, but are not limited to: (1) verbal conduct such as epithets, derogatory jokes or comments, or slurs; (2) unwanted advances and/or propositions of a sexual nature including relationships which began as consensual but later ceased to be mutual wherein one party then harasses the other; (3) visual displays such as derogatory and/or sexually-oriented posters, photography, cartoons, or drawings not protected by policies on academic freedom and freedom of expression; (4) suggesting or implying that submission to or rejection of sexual advances will affect decisions regarding such matters as an individual’s work assignment or status, salary, academic standing, grades, receipt of financial aid or letter of recommendation; (5) physical conduct including unnecessary and unwanted touching, intentionally blocking normal movement, or assault including sexual assault and rape.

1.18 Procedures

A. Informal Resolution Procedures

1. Individuals who believe they have been or may be the victim of sexual or other unlawful harassment (hereinafter “complainant”) may choose to avail themselves of informal resolution procedures. Use of these informal procedures is not a prerequisite to the filing of a complaint under the formal procedures described below.

2. Requests for assistance under these informal procedures may be oral or written and should usually be made as soon as possible after the most recent alleged act of sexual or other unlawful harassment. Such requests should be directed to Human Resources.

3. Requests for assistance under these informal procedures will be dealt with, to the greatest extent practical and possible, on a confidential basis and disclosure of their existence will be limited to those who, in the interests of fairness and problem resolution, have an immediate need to know or as legally required. If a person seeking assistance under these informal procedures requests that his or her name be withheld from the accused, Value Schools will honor the request, subject to its legal obligations to provide a safe and nondiscriminatory work and educational environment and such other legal obligations as may apply.

4. Upon receipt of a request for assistance under these informal procedures, the individual requesting assistance will be counseled on options for resolving the problem and about sources of further assistance.

B. Formal Resolution Procedures

1. Individuals who believe they have been the victim of sexual or other unlawful harassment may file a formal complaint. Such a complaint will result in an investigation, the purpose of which shall be to determine whether a violation of this policy has occurred.

2. Formal complaints under this procedure should be directed to Human Resources or the Chief Executive Officer. The complaint must be in writing.

C. Respect for the Rights of the Complainant and Accused

Value Schools recognizes the sensitive nature of harassment and harassment complaints both for the complainant and the person(s) against whom the complaint is made. All parties to the complaint should treat the matter under investigation with discretion and respect for the reputation of all parties involved.

1.19 Discipline

Persons who violate this policy will be disciplined. The particular form of discipline will depend on the nature of the offense. Discipline may include but is not limited to verbal warnings; written warnings; suspension; or termination of employment.

1.20 Retaliation Prohibited

Retaliation against any individual for seeking assistance or bringing a harassment complaint through the processes described in this policy is strictly prohibited. Similarly, any person who participates or cooperates in any manner in an investigation or any other aspect of the process described herein shall not be retaliated against. Retaliation is itself a violation of this policy and is a serious separate offense.

1.21 False Accusations

Accusations of sexual and other unlawful harassment typically have injurious far-reaching effects on the careers and lives of accused individuals. Allegations of harassment must be made in good faith and not out of malice. Knowingly making a false allegation of harassment, whether under the informal or formal procedures of this policy is itself a violation of this policy and a basis for disciplinary action up to and including dismissal/expulsion from the School or termination of employment. Failure to prove a claim of harassment is not the equivalent of a knowingly false accusation.

1.22 Responsibility

All employees are responsible for assuring that their conduct does not violate this policy. If administrators, managers, supervisors, or faculty members, know sexual or other unlawful harassment is occurring, receive a complaint of sexual or other unlawful harassment, or obtain other information indicating possible sexual or other unlawful harassment, they must take immediate steps to ensure that the matter is addressed. Failure to do so may result in legal liability. Administrators, managers and supervisors have the further responsibility of preventing and eliminating sexual or other unlawful harassment within the areas they supervise.

1.23  Additional Recourse

Sexual and other unlawful harassment is a violation of federal and state law. This policy is intended to supplement and not replace such laws. Whether or not the internal complaint procedures described in this policy are utilized, an employee who believes that s/he is the victim of sexual or other unlawful harassment may file a complaint with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing, 611 W. 6th Street, Suite 1500, Los Angeles, California 90017, (213) 439-6799, or the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 255 East Temple Street, 4th Floor, Los Angeles, California 90012, (213) 894-1000. Persons who believe they are victims of sexual or other unlawful harassment should be aware that both state and federal law impose time deadlines for the filing of complaints and that the use of the internal complaint procedures described in this policy will not change such filing deadlines.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, Central City Value High School does hereby agree, at its own expense, to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the LAUSD and the Board of Education and their members, officers, directors, agents, representatives, employees and volunteers from and against any and all claims, damages, losses and expenses including but not limited to attorneys’ fees, brought by any person or entity whatsoever, arising out of, or relating to this Charter agreement. Central City Value High School further agrees to the fullest extent permitted by law, at its own expense, to indemnify, defend, and hold harmless the LAUSD and the Board of Education and their members, officers, directors, agents, representatives, employees and volunteers from and against any and all claims, damages, losses and expenses including but not limited to attorneys’ fees, brought by any person or entity whatsoever for claims, damages, losses and expenses arising from or relating to acts or omission of acts committed by Central City Value High School, and their officers, directors, employees or volunteers. Moreover, Central City Value High School agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the District for any contractual liability resulting from third party contracts with its vendors, contractors, partners or sponsors.

Health, Safety and Emergency Plan

Central City Value High School will have a Health, Safety and Emergency Plan in place prior to beginning the operation of Central City Value High School. Central City Value High School will ensure that staff has been trained in health, safety, and emergency procedures and will maintain a calendar and conduct emergency response drills for students and staff.
FERPA
Central City Value High School, its employees and officers will comply with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) at all times.

Criminal Background Checks and Fingerprinting

Central City Value High School shall also ensure that it receives subsequent arrest notifications from the Department of Justice to ensure the ongoing safety of its students.
Element 7: Racial and Ethnic Balance

“The means by which the school will achieve a racial and ethnic balance among its pupils that is reflective of the general population residing within the territorial jurisdiction of the school district to which the charter petition is submitted.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(G)

General Policy Statement
Notwithstanding other statements, assurances and certifications that may appear in this charter petition, Central City Value High School in admitting students to the school will follow California law and the requirements and procedures presented in Element 8.

Achieving racial-ethnic balance
Because most of the students attend Central City Value High School live in nearby neighborhoods and these neighborhoods are mostly Hispanic, the school has a disproportionately high number of Hispanic students compared to district-wide percentages, but is almost identical to traditional public schools in the neighborhood. However, the school will continue to prepare recruitment literature in English, as well as Spanish, to demonstrate an outreach to African-American, Asian, Caucasian, and other students. Central City Value will conduct outreach to community organizations and middle schools during the late fall and winter to attract additional ethnic groups.

When non-Latino families inquire about the school, the administration will make every effort to encourage them to enroll their children. In addition Central City Value High School will look to nearby neighborhoods, community centers, local parks, other charter middle schools, and local businesses that may have racial/ethnic populations other than Hispanic and actively recruit in those neighborhoods.

The school will research community organizations and enlist their support in recruiting a diverse student population. The immediate organizations to be contacted will be located in Koreatown, Silverlake, and East Hollywood. The organizations will be provided with brochures in multiple languages to disseminate to their families. The organizations will be asked to invite their eighth grade students and their parents to an open-house at Central City Value High School to be held in late Fall each year. The school will also research pre-schools in Koreatown and disseminate flyers to those pre-schools. The school will contact non-charter public middle schools serving in Koreatown and ask the school to disseminate flyers to their 7th and 8th grade students to encourage enrollment. The non-charter middle school will be asked at their discretion to allow representatives from Central City Value High School to address a parent meeting at least once a year to recruit students for Central City Value.

Court-ordered Integration
Central City Value High School shall comply with all requirements of the Crawford v. Board of Education, City of Los Angeles court order and the LAUSD Integration Policy adopted and maintained pursuant to the Crawford court order, by the Office of Student Integration Services (collectively the “Court-ordered Integration Program”). The Court-ordered Integration Program applies to all schools within or chartered through LAUSD. The School will provide a written plan in the charter petition and upon further request by the District outlining how it would achieve and maintain the LAUSD’s ethnic goal of 70:30 or 60:40 ratio. (Ratio represents the percentage of Predominantly Hispanic Black Asian Other (PHBAO) compared to Other White (OW). The written plan should list specific dates, locations and recruitment activities to achieve the District’s Racial and Ethnic Balance goal.

The District receives neither average daily attendance allocations nor Court-ordered Integration Program cost reimbursements for charter school students. Instead, the District now receives the Targeted Instruction Improvement Grant (TIIG) for its Court-ordered Integration Program. The District retains sole discretion over the allocation of TIIG funding, where available, and cannot guarantee the availability of this Funding.

No Child Left Behind—Public School Choice (NCLB-PSC) Traveling Students

The District and Central City Value High School are committed to providing all students with quality educational alternatives in compliance with all federal and state laws, including students who are enrolled in schools of the District identified by the California Department of Education as in need of Program Improvement. No Child Left Behind—Public School Choice (“NCLB-PSC”) placement with charter schools is an alternative strongly encouraged by the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (“NCLB”). Central City Value High School agrees to discuss with the District the possibility of accepting for enrollment District students participating in the District’s NCLB-PSC program. The parties agree to memorialize separately any agreed-to number of NCLB-PSC placements of District students at the school.

As required under NCLB, all NCLB-PSC students attending Central City Value High School shall have the right to continue attending Central City Value High School until the highest grade level of the charter. However, the obligation of the District to provide transportation for a NCLB-PSC student to Central City Value High School shall end in the event the NCLB-PSC student’s resident District school exits Program Improvement status.

Central City Value High School will ensure that all of its NCLB-PSC students are treated in the same manner as other students attending Central City Value High School. NCLB-PSC students are and will be eligible for all applicable instructional and extra-curricular activities at Central City Value High School. Central City Value High School will make reasonable efforts to invite and encourage the participation of the parents of NCLB-PSC students in the activities and meetings at Central City Value High School.

Determination of student eligibility for this NCLB-PSC option, including the grade level of eligibility, will be made solely by the District, based on the District’s NCLB-PSC process, guidelines, policies and the requirements of NCLB. In the event demand for places at Central City Value High School under the NCLB-PSC program increases in subsequent years, Central City Value High School agrees to discuss with the District the possibility of increasing the number of NCLB-PSC places available at Central City Value High School.

Federal Compliance

As a recipient of federal funds, including federal Title I, Part A funds, Central City Value High School has agreed to meet all of the programmatic, fiscal and other regulatory requirements of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB) and other applicable federal grant programs. Central City Value High School understands that it is a local educational agency [LEA] for purposes of federal compliance and reporting purposes. Central City Value High School agrees that it will keep and make available to the District any documentation necessary to demonstrate compliance with the requirements of NCLB and other applicable federal programs, including, but not limited to, documentation related to funding, required parental notifications, appropriate credentialing of teaching and paraprofessional staff, the implementation of Public School Choice and Supplemental Educational Services, where applicable, or any other mandated federal program requirement. The mandated requirements of NCLB, Title I, Part A include, but are not limited to, the following:

Element 8: Admission Requirements

“Admission Requirements, if applicable.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(H)

Admission Policy
Central City Value High School shall not discriminate against any student on the basis of disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, nationality, race, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation or any other characteristic that is contained in the definition of hate crimes set forth in Section 422.55 of the Penal Code.

Admissions requirements
The requirements for admission to Central City Value High School are as follows:
1. The student must be a resident of the state of California.
2. The student must be eligible to enter the ninth grade.
3. The student must not have completed the twelfth grade.

Admission preferences and selection
In the event that there are more children seeking enrollment in Central City Value High School than there is space available, the school will give preference in the public random lottery to the following applicants:
1. Students living within LAUSD boundaries,
2. The siblings of children currently enrolled in the school are exempt from the lottery
3. The siblings of students enrolled at another Value School
4. The children of employees of a Value School up to 10% of enrollment

Admissions process
1. Parents who are seeking to enroll a student in the school submit a lottery application. These lottery applications are available all during the school year for the following school year.
2. The lottery application will ask for the student name, parent contact information, the grade level for which admission is sought, the birth date of the student and information that would give preference to the application (e.g. sibling of a student currently enrolled in the school).
3. On or about January 15th parents of students who are currently enrolled are asked if they plan to have their children return in the following year. If they say “yes,” or fail to return the form, those students are counted as returning.
4. The school calculates the available seats at each grade level, reserving two seats or more for students who may be retained.
5. A lottery date is set for the first Wednesday in February each year at 3:30 PM.
6. If the number of applicants at any grade level does not exceed the available seats on the lottery date, all the applicants are accepted and the number of available seats is recalculated.
7. If the number of applicants at any grade exceeds the available seats, the school reviews the applications to first determine if any student is on the preference list presented above. If there are students on the preference list and the number of students do not exceed the available seats at a given grade level, all those students are accepted and the number available seats is recalculated.
8. If the number of applicants on the preference lists exceeds the available seats on the lottery date, a lottery is conducted by the school administration by randomly drawing names of only the applicants on the preference list. Those names drawn first are accepted for admission and the other applicants on the preference list are placed on the waiting list in the order their names are drawn.
9. Once all seats are filled and a waiting list established, applications are still accepted, and assigned a waiting list number in the order that they are received.
10. Only after a student has been accepted in the school will the family be asked to complete a standard application form. The standard form will ask about all the information the school requires for its student information system.

Public notice of admissions process
1. All applicants to Central City Value High School will be given a written description of the rules governing the admission process at the time they submit an application for admission to the school.
2. The dates and times of all lotteries are posted in a prominent place near the entrance to the school most commonly used by the public.
3. The lotteries are conducted in the school’s community room by the principal or the principal’s delegate. The names of the applicants will be printed on file cards and organized by grade level. The cards for each grade level will be placed in a separate container and shuffled. The cards will be drawn in plain site of those observing the lottery so that it is clearly known as each name is selected who will be admitted to the school.

Notice to those admitted and to those on the waiting list
1. Those selected for admission are notified by telephone call from the school secretary. If the secretary is unable to talk to the parent, the secretary will leave a message asking the parent to call to establish an appointment. If the parent fails to call within two days, that student loses his/her place and goes to the end of the waiting list.
2. At the time of the call an appointment is scheduled for the parent to complete the admissions process. If the parent fails to come for appointment and does not reschedule, that student loses his/her place and goes to the end of the waiting list. Appropriate accommodations will be made for working parents.
3. Within twenty-four hours after the lottery, those selected by lottery are posted in the same location as the notice of the lottery.
4. Those on the waiting list are notified by the school secretary by letter and told of their position on the waiting list.
5. However, if a parent is applying after the lottery and all seats for a given grade have been taken, the parent is orally notified at the time of obtaining the application form that the student has been given the next number on a waiting list.
6. If a seat becomes available at a later date, the school secretary calls the next person on the waiting list to establish an appointment for the parent induction. If that parent indicates that he/she is no longer interested, the next person on the waiting list is contacted.

Lottery records
Central City Value High School shall maintain in the student personnel files of students admitted to the school a record of how they were selected for admission (e.g. a sibling of a current student or lottery) for as long as the student continues in enrollment at the school. If the student leaves the school before completion, the record of how the student was selected will be removed from the student personnel file and filed with the records of those students not selected in the year the student was admitted.

Central City Value High School shall maintain for three years a file with the lottery applications for those students who were not selected for admission. Appended to the lottery application will be a record indicating the date the application was received, the date of lottery and the “wait-list” number if one was assigned. Also appended shall be a copy of any correspondence between the family and the school regarding admissions

Parent induction program
Before attending a Central City Value High School for the first time, a student must be admitted to the school. The admission process includes a parent induction program and a student orientation. A parent’s decision to not attend in no way impacts the student’s admission or enrollment.

The induction program is an educational program designed to facilitate the parent’s acceptance of the expectations by Central City Value High School. The first step is a conference with the school’s principal or another administrator prepared to undertake the role. In the conference the school’s expectations for both the student and parent are outlined and the range of parent support opportunities is presented. The parent is encouraged to identify the problems or obstacles that he or she may fear. The principal guides the parent through possible solutions to these hindrances. The conference concludes with an invitation to the parent to make a commitment to support the core values and to cooperate with the school in the formation of the student in these values.

The induction program continues at each parent gathering. At these meetings parents come to understand more of their role in assisting in their children’s education. Students will join the parent for the conclusion of the conference and also make a commitment to the core values.

Student orientation
Critical to the success of any school is the willingness of the students to do the work of the school. Central City Value High School proposes to conduct a program to help students not only be willing participants in the school activities, but also to embrace the five core values.

The program begins with a specially designed student orientation. The orientation demonstrates the value of school in the life of the student. The orientation is constructed to help form the affective dimension of the students and to suggest motivations that are meaningful to students.

The orientation is conducted during the same time frame as the parent induction program. In this way the student should be prepared to sign a commitment to the core values before actually beginning in school. The student’s nonsignature of the commitment in no way impacts the student’s admission or enrollment.
District Required Language

McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act

Central City Value High School will adhere to the provisions of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act and ensure that each child of a homeless individual and each homeless youth has equal access to the same free, appropriate public education as provided to other children and youths. Central City Value High School will include specific information in their outreach materials, websites, at community meetings, open forums, and regional center meetings notifying parents that the school is open to enroll and provide services for all students which shall include a District standard contact number to access additional information regarding enrollment. A student’s IEP will never be required prior to participation in any attendance lottery or as a condition for enrollment.
Element 9: Financial Operations and Audits

“The manner in which annual, independent, financial audits shall be conducted, which shall employ generally accepted accounting principles, and the manner in which audit exceptions and deficiencies shall be resolved to the satisfaction of the chartering authority.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(I)

Element 10: Student Suspensions and Expulsions

“The procedures by which pupils can be suspended or expelled.” Ed. Code § 47605 (b)(5)(J)

Due process, suspensions and expulsions
Central City Value High School follows the Value Schools' Policy on Responsible Behavior (presented below). The due process policy establishes the right of students and their parents to due process in matters of suspension and expulsion. The due process procedures specify the requirements for notice, for the exchange of information that establishes the grounds for the disciplinary action, and for a hearing.

The Value Schools policies on suspension establish the grounds for a suspension; they limit the maximum number of consecutive days for a suspension to five; and they require the school to provide assignments to the suspended student to minimize the loss of school time.

The Value Schools policies on expulsion establish the grounds for an expulsion; they require the school to work with appropriate parties to ensure the continued education of an expelled student in school; and they require that notice of violent or threatening behavior be given to the officials of the school in which an expelled student will be next enrolled.

The Value Schools policies establish opportunities for appeal from the decision of the principal of Central City Value High School for a suspension. The appeal is made to the chief executive officer (or authorized delegate) of Value Schools. In the event of an expulsion, the appeal is made to an Appeals Committee.

1. Principles of Responsible Behavior for Students
   Responsible behavior is a hallmark of Value Schools because it is a result of an acceptance of the five core values, in particular the values of human dignity and community. Because of a respect for the dignity of each person, words about and to another person, as well actions taken towards another person, affirm that person’s worth. In addition each person takes good care of oneself because of one’s own self-respect for personal dignity. This value results in such traits as

   • politeness and courtesy towards all (e.g. teachers, students, volunteers, visitors, and so forth);
   • kind words about others: statements that degrade another because of race, gender, creed, national origin, physical appearance or any other characteristic are not acceptable; language that is crude and obscene or in any way may be considered a form of sexual harassment is unacceptable; threats to a person’s well being and all forms of bullying—even if made in jest—are not acceptable;
• just actions toward others: acts of physical violence of any kind—including pushing, shoving, tripping—and any kind of fighting is not acceptable; taking or destroying or in any way reducing in value the property of another (including the community property of the school) is not acceptable; lewd behavior, signs and gestures are not acceptable;
• good personal appearance: good grooming is a sign of self-respect; wearing of certain articles of clothing, jewelry, and personal adornments of hair style and tattoos that are potentially threatening to others or oneself are not acceptable;
• good health, including the avoidance of tobacco, controlled substances and alcohol.

Respecting human dignity is a form of toleration of another’s rights and differences. However, beyond just getting along with others, human persons have the opportunity of benefiting from the gifts and talents of one another. This is the meaning of community: recognizing that we both give and gain in our cooperative work with one another. This value results in such traits as

• cooperation with teachers and students in academics and other activities;
• honesty: telling the truth creates the possibility of trust and trust leads to a comfort and freedom in cooperation;
• resolving differences peacefully: going beyond the avoidance of negative words or violent actions and seeking a way to live and work together so that everyone can benefit—resolving differences peacefully sometimes means bringing in another person (most often an adult) who can help find a solution that works for everyone;
• getting help for those in need—this includes help for those who are physically sick or injured and those who are psychologically suffering because of some personal problem (e.g. substance abuse or depression) of some family situation (e.g. death of a parent or divorce) and of some peer pressure (e.g. conflicts in school or with friends, pressure from gangs);
• punctuality and cleanliness which recognize that time and space and material goods in a school are shared and not personal possessions;
• following safety rules so that all can feel and be secure;
• being responsible in reporting absences from school and bringing written excuses: this allows for accommodations to be made to continue group activity;
• regular attendance—because frequent absences affect school funding that reduces resources for all.

The other three values—academic learning, the development of each person’s talents but in an academically well-rounded way, and service to the community—are manifested in the following traits:

• striving to do one’s best at all times;
• paying attention in class and following teacher directions;
• doing homework and other assignments in a timely fashion;
• helping others to do their work where appropriate
Finally, all must recognize that the five core values are not just for school hours or the school property. Students will be expected to exemplify these values outside school hours and off school property.

2. Responsible Behavior for Parents
Parents also accept the five core values and so their behavior is also marked by certain characteristics that include:

- modeling language and behavior that is respectful in every way—including not taking sides against other children or their parents when disputes arise in school or elsewhere;
- cooperating with other parents and teachers and staff to improve programs and opportunities for students—including supporting school rules with their children;
- volunteering when possible to help the school;
- supporting and encouraging their children to strive to do their best.

3. Responsible Behavior for Teachers and Staff
Teachers and staff both accept the five core values and recognize their responsibility for modeling them. Traits that exemplify this include

- believing in the students, expecting them to do their best and holding them accountable for achievement;
- recognizing the abilities of students and not giving up on them when they do not succeed;
- showing a warm concern for all the needs of the students and their families, even though they may recognize that they cannot solve all problems and may only be able to offer a listening heart;
- developing rules and procedures that begin with listening to students and their parents;
- fostering respect through positive and encouraging words and actions towards students, parents and other teachers and through appreciating their accomplishments;
- preventing inappropriate behavior by careful observation and by planning activities carefully—making sure student have worthwhile activities to occupy their time and capture their interest;
- being culturally sensitive;
- administering discipline when needed that is devoid of corporal punishment and any form of abuse (humiliation, intimidation, ridicule, coercion, threats, or punitive actions);
- setting boundaries for students and holding them accountable so that they can perfect their skills in carrying out the five core values;
- administering discipline in a progressive way that forms subsequent behavior and does not expect perfection in the first instance.

4. School Rules for Responsible Behavior
The principal shall establish, in consultation with the faculty and staff, the rules, regulations and procedures necessary to ensure responsible behavior in the school. In establishing these rules, regulations and procedures the principal shall be guided by the principles list above and by the requirements for due process, for suspension and for expulsion listed below.

5. Due Process
Students and parents are guaranteed their rights to due process in matters of the suspension and expulsion of students. The due process procedure for suspension and expulsion are present in this policy and in the Charter School's parent/student handbook. The due process procedures shall specify:

- how and when notice will be given to the parent and the student (i.e. information that behavior has occurred which could lead to a suspension or expulsion);
- how information will be given to the parent and the student about the evidence that exists to substantiate that the behavior has occurred;
- how and when there will be a hearing to review the information gathered by the school as well as any information or consideration that the parent or student may wish to present that could affect the decision;
- when the parent can expect a decision
- how and when an appeal can be made and when a decision will be made

6. Suspension
6.1 The Principal, Assistant Principal and Dean of Students have the authority to suspend.
6.2 A student may be suspended either after the parent and student have been given notice and the opportunity for a conference meeting or prior to a conference.
6.3 When the student is suspended before a conference, the student’s parent must be immediately notified that the student is being suspended and be given the opportunity to meet with an appropriate school official no later than the next school day. This conference shall be a requirement for the student to return to school. If information presented at the conference proves the suspension was in error, the suspension shall be removed from the student’s record.

6.4 The maximum consecutive number of school days for a suspension is five. The maximum number of days for suspension during the school year is fifteen days.

6.5 During a period of suspension the student shall be given assignments and homework by the student’s teacher(s) to minimize the loss of schooling. Upon return to school, the student shall be given an opportunity to make up any missed tests. The assignments are listed on PowerSchool, which the student and parent have access to at home or in school. This gives the student and parent(s) the knowledge of all classroom and homework assignments that are assigned during the days of suspensions. The suspended student’s advisor will meet with the student upon return to ensure that assignments have been completed. If a test has been missed during a suspension, the advisor will make sure that the student has the opportunity to take a make-up exam.
6.6 These are the discretionary grounds for a suspension or expulsion

Parents and students will have due process rights with regards to suspensions and expulsions. At the time of a student’s suspension, the principal, either personally or by appointing a staff person, shall make a reasonable effort to contact the parents by telephone or in person. Initial contact will be followed by a written notice. This notice will state the specific offense committed by the student. In addition, the notice will also state the date and time the student may return to school. If the school administrator wishes to confer with the parents regarding matters pertinent to the suspension, the notice may note that the parents are required to respond without delay, and that violation of school rules can result in expulsion from the school.

7. Expulsion

7.1 The authority to expel a student belongs to the Principal and to the Appeals Panel. The Principal’s decision is final unless the parents appeal.

7.2 The school will work cooperatively with the parents, public school district of residence, and others to assist with the educational placement of a student who is being expelled.

7.3 The school will notify the school or district in which an expelled student will next be enrolled of any and all incidents of violence or of behavior that was threatening to the well-being of any person.

Recommendations for Expulsion
If the Assistant Principal or Dean of Students or in the absence of either, a teacher appointed by the Principal to review and recommend expulsions (the “Reviewing Officer”) recommends expulsion, the student and the student’s parents will be invited to a conference to determine if the suspension for the student should be extended pending an expulsion hearing conducted by the Principal. This determination will be made by the Reviewing Officer upon either of the following findings:

- The student’s presence will likely be disruptive to the educational process
- The student poses a threat or danger to others

Upon this determination, the student’s suspension will be extended pending the results of an expulsion hearing.

Expulsion Hearing
Students recommended for expulsion will be entitled to a hearing before the Principal to determine whether or not the student should be expelled. Unless postponed for good cause, the hearing will be held within 30 days after the Reviewing Officer determines that an act subject to expulsion has occurred.

A student may be expelled following a hearing before the Principal. The Reviewing Officer will assign a Discipline Committee to conduct the investigation of the behavior and incident, gather evidence, prepare such documents as may be necessary, to determine whether witnesses are appropriate and identify and interview witnesses. The Discipline Committee consists of the Reviewing Officer and two certificated employees uninvolved with the incident and who do not teach the student.

The hearing shall be held in closed session (complying with all pupil confidentiality rules under FERPA) unless the Pupil makes a written request for a public hearing three (3) days prior to the hearing.

Written notice of the hearing will be forwarded by the CEO/Principal or designee to the student and the student’s parents at least 10 calendar days before the date of the hearing. This notice will include:

- The date and place of the hearing
- A statement of the specific facts, charges and offense upon which the proposed expulsion is based
- A copy of the disciplinary rules that relate to the alleged violation
- The opportunity for the student or the student’s parents to appear in person at the hearing
- The opportunity for the student to be represented by counsel
- The right to examine and acquire copies of all documents to be used at the hearing
- The opportunity to cross-examine all witnesses that testify at the hearing
- The opportunity to present evidence and witnesses on behalf of the student

Record of Hearing

A record of the hearing shall be made and may be maintained by any means, including electronic recording, as long as a reasonably accurate and complete written transcription of the proceedings can be made.

Presentation of Evidence

While technical rules of evidence do not apply to expulsion hearings, evidence may be admitted and used as proof only if it is the kind of evidence on which reasonable persons can rely in the conduct of serious affairs. A decision by the Principal to expel must be supported by substantial evidence that the student committed an expellable offense. Findings of fact shall be based solely on the evidence at the hearing. While hearsay evidence is admissible, no decision to expel shall be based solely on hearsay. Sworn declarations may be admitted as testimony from witnesses of whom the Discipline Committee, Principal, or Appeals Panel determines that disclosure of their identity or testimony at the hearing may subject them to an unreasonable risk of physical or psychological harm.

If, due to a written request by the expelled pupil, the hearing is held at a public meeting, and the charge is committing or attempting to commit a sexual assault or committing a sexual battery as defined in Education Code Section 48900, a complaining witness shall have the right to have his or her testimony heard in a session closed to the public.

The decision of the Principal shall be in the form of written findings of fact. The final decision by the Principal shall be made within five (5) school days following the conclusion of the hearing.
If the Principal decides not to recommend expulsion, the pupil shall immediately be returned to his/her educational program.

Written Notice to Expel
The Assistant Principal or designee following a decision of the Principal to expel shall send written notice of the decision to expel, including the Principal’s adopted findings of fact, to the student or parent/guardian. This notice shall also include the following: Notice of the specific offense committed by the student; Notice of the student’s or parent/guardian’s obligation to inform any new district in which the student seeks to enroll of the student’s status with the Charter School; Notice of any appeal options; and information about alternative placement options.
