A+ Habits

Students today are also busier and getting less sleep than ever before, leading to increased levels of stress, depression, and illness. Our students frequently tell us they spend at least five hours per night on homework, while teachers share that what they've assigned should take no more than two. With distractions coming from every direction, students are desperately in need of smart, informed strategies to help them reduce stress and better manage and organize their time. Changing habits is hard, but with time, effort, and expert coaching from Revolution Prep, students can help turn their bad habits into A+ Habits. Revolution Prep's experience working with over one million students has shown that there are six essential habits that separate the best students from the students who struggle. These six A+ Habits are:

1. Study in ways that maximize your time
2. Plan ahead, write down goals and stay accountable

3. Maintain effective organizational routines
4. Incorporate a Growth Mindset
5. Respond to stress productively
6. Ask for help when you need it

At Revolution, we are committed to a partnership focused on increasing student participation and end results by empowering teachers in supporting students' academics and test prep and the scalability of sustainable blended instruction. Our Implementation package includes an array of services designed to provide ample training and support to ensure students are using the Revolution programs with fidelity beyond the school day. In our experience offering this type of support through school-wide implementation creates the greatest buy in and significantly increases participation and end results. When an entire school is engaged, we can communicate seamlessly with parents, faculty, students, and community leaders to publicize the program and drive frequent and effective use. As awareness of this vital resource grows, so does utilization and therefore student learning outcomes.
